PARENTS WARNED OF ROLE IN BATTLE ON SOCIAL DISEASE

Dr. T. F. Abercrombie Addresses Military Order of World War.

Parents and law enforcement officials must realize their responsibility before the state and nation can be successful in combating venereal diseases, Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the State Department of Public Health, declared yesterday at a meeting of the Military Order of the World War.

"Medical treatment alone is not going to solve the problem," Dr. Abercrombie said. "We must get back into the homes and educate the parents, and the law enforcement officials must realize the important part they have to play in the fight," the state official continued.

Dr. Abercrombie was the first of a series of speakers which will address the order on the various subjects tending to better or harm the nation's manpower.

Plan Recommendations.
The order, after studying the opinions of these speakers, will make recommendations to the public. This program, formulated by Major General Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area, was adopted unanimously yesterday.

"I am no alarmist or religious fanatic, but the example of some of our mothers and fathers are setting having its effect on the younger generation," Dr. Abercrombie declared.

Discussing the various diseases affecting the state's men, Dr. Abercrombie cited malaria, hookworm, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, venereal diseases and faulty nutrition as the principal health problems facing Georgia.

"If we could solve the problem of the right sort of diet for our people, we would solve most of the ills," he said. "If a human being is thoroughly nourished he won't contract tuberculosis, malaria, and the other diseases so easily."

180,000 Repeat Grades.
Declaring there are approximately 180,000 school children who repeat their grades in Georgia every year, the health director said various diseases are largely responsible for this condition. "You can't teach a sick child," he emphasized.

Other topics which are included in the organization's study of American manpower are crime, illiteracy, survervive "isms," and breeding. The plan is to have an authority on each subject address the group at each meeting. John M. Slaton Jr., commander, said.

HEADS EXCHANGE CLUB.
SAVANNAH, Dec. 7.—(P)—Harrell C. Murray yesterday was elected president of the Savannah Exchange Club. He succeeds A. K. Dearing.

'Candy' Gift a Bomb; He Goes to Hospital

WAR, W. Va., Dec. 7.—(P)—A friend handed J. T. Altizer what he thought was a piece of candy. The 63-year-old man bit and it exploded, tearing his mouth and lips and sending him to the hospital today.

RECORD COLD ENDS AS MERCURY RISES

he clung to a partly submerged boat in the icy Potomac river near Fairview Beach, Va.

A broken pipe burst at Newport, Tenn., and Charlie Gregory, 30, was fatally injured. A negro was frozen to death in middle Tennessee and another perished of exposure in his flimsy house at New Orleans.

The frigid temperatures made trouble for numerous motorists as cars failed to start, and many other Atlantans worked over frozen water pipes. The weather was the principal subject in almost every conversation.

Atlanta's low of 9 degrees was below the readings in several northern and western cities. Chicago reported 12; Minneapolis 14; Seattle 44; Los Angeles 58; San Francisco 50; Dallas 28, and San Antonio 34.

Zero in West Virginia.
Flat Top, W. Va., was the coldest point in the east and south with a zero reading. At Williston, N. D., the mercury was 2 degrees below, and 6 above at Moorehead, Minn., and Stearns, Ky.

Tampa, Fla., had a low of 28; Pensacola, 20; Miami, 40; Jacksonville, 20; Thomasville, 16; Macon, 14; Brunswick, 20; Savannah, 17; Moultrie, 18; Albany, 17; Athens, 11; Augusta, 15; McRae, 16; Valdosta, 17; Columbus, 16; Chattanooga, 12; Memphis, 18; Nashville, 10; Raleigh, N. C., 18; Birmingham, Ala., 12; Montgomery, 16; Dothan, 16; Monroeville, 14; Meridian, Miss., 16; Vicksburg, 22; Biloxi, on the Mississippi, 24; Tupelo, in northeast Mississippi, 12, and New Orleans, 30.

The mercury fell more than 20 degrees in sections of Florida and brought a reading of 27 degrees at Lakeland in the Polk county citrus area. The Florida experiment station at Belle Glade in the heart of the thriving truck-growing area reported a heavy frost and some damage to a bumper bean crop. Strawberry plants in the Starke, Fla., area were reported to be damaged.

Snow in North Carolina.
Snow blanketed eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina and extended northward to the Great Lakes and across northern states generally from Montana to the Atlantic.

New England and several eastern states enjoyed balmy temperatures than did many points in the deep south. Boston reported three inches of rain and a low of

They're in 'An Old-Fashioned District School' Again

Under tutelage of Professor Finklestein, played by W. A. Brown, extreme right, above, the cast of "An Old-Fashioned District School," written by W. A. Brown and presented by the chorus choir of the first Christian church, was caught by the photographer during a tense scene at dress rehearsal last night. The play will be put on at the church tonight with the entire choir dressed in old costumes of old-fashioned styles. From left to right, are: Mrs. Robert Cunningham, Virginia Moore, Vernon Holmes and W. A. Brown.

42 degrees. New York had a low of 28, Buffalo 24 and Pittsburgh 12.

Thermometers skidded down to the lowest mark in years in several cities, notably at Savannah, with a bottom of 17.1 degrees, and Jacksonville, with 20. These two cities reported the coldest weather since January, 1928.

Bitter temperatures were reported in the mountains of western North Carolina. Mount Mitchell, in western North Carolina, reported a low reading of 14 below zero; Asheville, 4 above; Greensboro, 14; Charlotte, 15; Wilmington, 22; Charleston, S. C., 18; Columbia, 16, and Spartanburg, 12.

Six inches of snow blanketed the famed winter resort of Lake Placid, N. Y. Other upstate regions were covered by a varying blanket of snow that stretched from Buffalo to Albany and from Malone to Binghamton. Roads remained open but traffic was impeded by ice and snow.

Florida fruit growers were urged to fire their guns last night to prevent additional losses from the cold. Tender winter vegetable crops were hard hit and growers and marketing authorities said another subfreezing attack could do heavy damage.

'BOSS' GILLIS BEATEN IN RACE FOR MAYOR

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Newburyport's fiery mayor, Andrew J. (Boss) Gillis, today was defeated for a fourth term by former City Solicitor James F. Carens in one of eight mayoralty elections in Massachusetts.

Carens, who said his election was "an indication that the people of our city will no longer tolerate the practice of personal abuse in public affairs," received 4,336 votes to 2,411 for Gillis.

STATE DENIES LICENSE TO BABY BIRTH FILM

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(P)—The sound picture, "The Birth of a Baby," will not be shown in New York state if the state education department can help it. Education Commissioner Graves said today he had denied a license to exhibit the picture on the grounds the film was "indecent, immoral and would tend to corrupt morals."

PLAYWRIGHT'S WIFE IS MISSING ON COAST

MONTEREY, Cal., Dec. 7.—(P)—The hunt for Mrs. Sarah Flavin, Broadway playwright's wife who has been missing since yesterday noon, was concentrated along the rugged Carmel shoreline tonight after searchers found her tripod camera but one foot from the edge of a 30-foot sea cliff.

The 54-year-old wife of Martin Flavin, Pulitzer prize winner, disappeared while taking photographs near their home at Carmel Highlands.

Believing his wife was visiting friends, Flavin, who won the Pulitzer prize for his play, "The Criminal Code," did not report her absence until after midnight.

distance of 10 to 15 meters (32-50 feet). The ice-built observatory of Eugene Federoff sparkles like a precious stone. The bulbs of pocket torches are alight—Federoff is making observations.

"Around the camp is a wide passageway. It is not particularly pleasant here during a snowstorm. The fine snow penetrates even the thickest clothing.

"Our hut is like a cake with lots of icing. The entrance is closed securely by a triple door—a curtain. The floor of the entrance is taken up by four pairs of so-called tapochki (light sport shoes). You could easily bathe a 2-month-old baby in any one of them.

Crouch Low As Possible.
"As you crawl in, be sure to crouch as low as possible. Otherwise you'll get a neck full of snow."

"The rubber door with its fur lining is difficult to open. It is held in place by lengths of rubber which are fastened to the staves of the hut. Six months' experience has taught us how to pass through the door agilely, even when carrying hot tea kettles and pots.

"Each of us has mastered his catechism for getting dressed. I, for instance, have the following rules:

"When sitting up in one's bag, don't bump one's head against a corner of the table; when putting on one's shirt, don't upset the inkwell and the bottles of Shirshoff; when one stands up, look out for the sharp screws in the roof; while putting on one's trousers, don't kick the lamp over with one's right foot or knock Shirshoff's desk out of his hands with one's left foot. Each of us has his own desk—a piece of veneer.

"In the middle of the vast expanse of the arctic, our dwelling is confined to three square meters (32 square feet).

"That is all that remains after disposing of our things.

Table At Right.
"The table of the transmitting station is at the right of the entrance. At the left is a box on the wall, which we call our buffet. steadily when it suddenly dived into the two homes.

Hardy Hollers, who lived nearby, said:

"It sounded like it was flying low. Then, suddenly, there was the crash."

None of the seven persons in the Herrington house was injured.

Army Board Investigates.
An investigating board of three air corps officers was dispatched immediately to Austin from San Antonio to identify the pilot and to attempt to determine the cause of the crash.

"Naturally, we can't identify the pilot definitely until the investigating board has seen the body. They might be able to reach it tonight, and they might not be able to reach it before tomorrow morning," said the officer of the day at Kelly field. "All evidence at hand, however, points to Avellino. We're almost certain it is he."

Officers at Kelly field, the army station at San Antonio, tonight tentatively identified the pilot as Captain F. A. Avellino, of the Mexican army, a student in the United States army advanced flying school, t h r o u g h arrangements made with the State Department by the Mexican government.

Avellino, on a routine training flight with 16 other pilots of the flying school, was reported to be flying plane No. 35-68. He was the only pilot of the group unaccounted for at a late hour tonight. This number was visible in the wreckage of the Albricht home.

Other Planes Land.
The officer of the day at Kelly field said that the 16 pilots of the other planes had reported to field headquarters. They said they had encountered low visibility. Five landed at Hensley field, Dallas, one at Fort Worth and ten at Waco.

No Explanation.
No explanation of the cause of the accident that sent the plane into its dive has been obtained. It is reported the ship went into a vertical left bank at an altitude of about 100 feet. None of the other fliers who were on the training flight with Captain Avellino reported any condition except low visibility that would have forced the Mexican officer to lose control of his craft. Neither was there any report from them as they landed at different points that his ship was missing from the group.

'WET' COUNTY RUM SALE IS PROPOSED

manufacture but forbids the sale of liquor within the state.

Aid to Dry Counties.
Representative Thomas, of Chatham county, author of the repeal bill, declaring his county would not be one of those permitted to sell liquor, said repeal would serve to improve the enforcement of prohibition in the counties which voted dry.

The introduction of the Thomas measure was the outstanding development of the day's session which was marked also by the house's passage of the $300 household and kitchen furniture exemption bill. It will be ready for the signature of Governor Rivers as soon as the senate concurs in a few amendments.

The Thomas bill would permit the sale of liquor in the following counties:

Baker, Bacon, Atkinson, Berrien, Bryan, Bulloch, Candler, Camden, Chatham, Dougherty, Echols, Emanuel, Brantley, Fulton, Glynn, Lowndes, Miller, Mitchell, McIntosh, Muscogee, Pierce, Richmond, Seminole, Truett and Ware.

DeKalb Not Included.
DeKalb and Bibb counties, although they voted for repeal, did not give a large enough majority to the wet cause to be included in the Thomas bill. Several other counties were in the same situation.

Representative Thomas, who also is one of the authors of the bill to legalize horse racing and permit pari-mutuel betting on races, said he felt that the house would approve his measure.

Thomas said, "It is a bill to bring about better enforcement of the dry law in those counties which voted to remain dry and will only serve to tax liquor in those counties which favor it and which for the most part are permitting its sale now."

Thomas said that the proponents of the bill would "lay a strong case" before the temperance committee Thursday.

Representative Whipple said he saw "nothing in this bill which justifies its adoption."

"People Spoke Will."
"The people of the state spoke their will on repeal in the June election," Judge Whipple said. "They voted dry by an even greater majority than they did two years ago. If the wets had won the election the dries would have abided by the will of the majority. We now expect our worthy opponents to do likewise."

Mr. Gaines and Dr. Thompson introduced Chairman Sabados they would before the committee to ask adoption of his bill.

"This law would provide a fine outlet for some of our Georgia crops and inasmuch as it does not permit the sale of liquor within the state's borders we can see no objection to it," Judge McGraw said.

Sabados said that Gaines and Dr. Thompson also have announced they will oppose this bill.

Exemption Voted, 125 to 3.
The $300 personal exemption plan went through the house with only one or two minor changes. It now goes back to the senate for concurrence, which is expected. The house vote was 125 to 3.

Speaker Roy V. Harris led the fight for the bill.

Only one amendment was considered important. This provides that the exemption shall not apply to motor vehicles. Harris agreed to the amendment.

By a vote of 89 to 63 the house defeated a bill by Representative Harrell, of Brooks county, to require veterans who operate rolling stores to pay state taxes. The veterans are now exempt.

The fight on the bill was led by Sabados, Representatives Durden, of Dougherty county, and Joel, of Clarke.

2-Mill Ad Valorem.
Among the new bills was one by Senator Hardman, of Commerce, who asked the state limit on ad valorem taxes be reduced from five to two mills. The measure makes no provision for getting new revenue to take the place of that lost by the proposed reduction.

The comptroller general's office estimated that the bill, if adopted, would cut the yield from the tax from slightly more than $5,000,000 a year to $2,000,000 a year.

"Real estate taxes are too high," Senator Hardman said. "The limit ought to be reduced."

The senate approved unanimously Senator Thomas Chason's proposal to amend the constitu-

BARCLAY CASE INQUIRY BLOCKED IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—An administration leader in action today upon a proposed congressional investigation to determine whether the National Labor Relations Board has lost the freedom of the press.

The proposal was advanced by Representative Thomas, Republican, New Jersey, after the had subpoenaed Hartley W. Barclay, editor of "Mill and Far" for questioning concerning a article he published.

Thomas asked that the immediately authorize Speaker Bankhead to appoint a special investigating committee. Representative Rayburn, of Texas, Democratic leader, objected the proposal was not privy and could not interrupt the usual order of business. It was asked when Speaker Bankhead held Rayburn's view.

The labor board remained tonight on any plans it may to force Barclay, who has its subpoena, to testify in board's investigation of W. Steel Company labor policies.

Senator Lindsay introduced a bill which would prohibit the state from employing any alien except where no United States citizen is available for the position.

On motion of Senator Lindsay the senate voted unanimously to make a part of the senate record United States Representative Hugh Peterson's letter in reply to charges that certain members of congress had failed to co-operate with President Roosevelt's farm program and also a copy of Peterson's farm bill.

50 ON PAY ROLLS STATE, WISDOM REPORTS TO HOUSE

Highway Department Leads List With Total of 2,500 Employees.

The state of Georgia has approximately 6,750 persons on its rolls, Tom Wisdom, state auditor, reported to the house of representatives yesterday in compliance with a resolution adopted regarding this information.

Wisdom's 252-page report covered the names of employees as of November 15, totaling 6,750. It also listed several hundred who were employed between January 1 and November 15 and the employees of the state between those dates.

Will Ask Printing. Representative Elliott, of Muskegon, said he will ask that the report be printed for use by the legislators. Authors of the resolution asking for the list declared it would be used in effecting economies in state government.

The State Highway Department is the largest employer of persons listed in the Wisdom report. The department's pay roll totaled more than 2,500.

This figure includes the employees of the newly created post office division and the highway engineering survey, W. L. Miller, chairman of the highway board, said last night.

It was said that the total employment figure for the state as of November 15 was approximately larger than on January 1. A number of new departments and agencies have been created since the first of the year. Wisdom's report did not include school teachers but lists 105 employees for the Department of Education.

Specific Reports. Among the departments reported specifically on the number of employees were: Agriculture, 130; athletic commission, 16; banking, 16; auditing, 20; comptroller general, 72; entomology, 23; executive department and buildings and grounds, 26; Governor's office, 11; contractor's licensing board, 6; and unemployment compensation division of the labor department, 92.

Wisdom's report listed employees by name but did not give a complete summary as to the numbers in each department.

Suffrage Opponent Hangs Wife on Door

MOSCOW, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Signs of die-hard opposition to woman's suffrage in Soviet Middle Asia, where men formerly were masters of harems, came tonight from Uzbekistan.

With polling next Sunday under the new constitution, a Tashkent newspaper reported one man hanged his wife from a barn door to prevent her from attending an election meeting.

It said another stripped his wife and told her that if she must vote she could go to the polls nude.

Both husbands were held for trial.

og, 23; executive department and buildings and grounds, 26; Governor's office, 11; contractor's licensing board, 6; and unemployment compensation division of the labor department, 92.

Wisdom's report listed employees by name but did not give a complete summary as to the numbers in each department.

CAPTAIN C. CARTER, FIRE VETERAN, DIES

Member of Department 32
Years, Headed No. 14
Since 1931.

Captain Charles Curtis Carter, veteran member of the Atlanta fire department, died yesterday morning in a hospital here following a paralytic stroke. He was 61.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes, with the Rev. S. F. Lowe in charge. Burial will follow in West View cemetery.

Pallbearers named are Captain E. W. Estes, William Haskins, William Callaway, P. A. McWilliams, W. J. Cowan, Captain W. J. Knowles. The honorary escort will consist of members of the Atlanta fire department.

A member of the Atlanta fire department for 32 years, Mr. Carter had been captain of Station No. 14 since 1931.

Most of his years as a fireman were spent with station No. 4, serving under Fire Chief William B. Cody. His bravery as a fire-fighter won him the promotion as captain of the other company. He was on leave from station No. 14 at the time he became ill. He lived at 223 Twelfth street, N. E.

His wife and three cousins, O. R. Steele, of Hogansville, and Walter and Miss Lillian Steele, of Jacksonville, Fla., survive.

GIRLS TO OPPOSE FOREIGN DEBATORS

Agnes Scott Team To Argue on Trades Unionism.

Debaters from Oxford and Cambridge will fight it out verbally this week with Emory and Agnes Scott students.

James Brown, of Ireland, student at Oxford, and Ronald V. Gibson, of Scotland, student at Cambridge, will speak tomorrow night in Glenn Memorial auditorium and will take the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, that the absolute veto of the supreme court is an anachronism."

Emory debaters, who will take the negative side of the question are Jack Tolbert, of Columbus, Ga., and S. C. Beard, of Big Stone Gap, Va.

The visiting debaters will contest Friday night at Agnes Scott, when they will take the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that the power of trade unions has increased, is increasing, and ought to be diminished."

Mary Frances Guthrie, of Louisville, Ky., and Margaret Hopkins, of Gainesville, Fla., with Jean Austin, of Chattanooga, as alternate, comprise the Agnes Scott team.

SPALDING URGES NEW TAX SETUP

State Is Loser, Attorney Tells Frat Alumni.

A complete revamping of the method of taxation in Georgia was advocated yesterday by Hughes Spalding, attorney, at a luncheon-meeting of the Atlanta Alumni chapter, Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity.

"Millions of dollars of intangible property has been driven from the state in the past few years, leaving the tax burden on the average working man," Spalding said.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia, and Leonard R. Siebert, secretary of the University System of Georgia, attended.

'LITTLE PEACH'

Georgia Dancing Masters
Approve Emory Creation.

"The Little Peach," Emory University's contribution to the dancing world, yesterday won approval of the Georgia Dancing Masters' Association as "the outstanding current song and dance hit."

Thus did the dancing masters of Georgia turn thumbs down on the Big Apple and place the Little Peach in the front ranks on dance floors.

With this announcement came another that the Little Peach will be the featured dance at the New York fashion show and charity ball and would be broadcast words and music over a nation-wide hookup at 10:30 o'clock (Atlanta time) Friday night.

The dance was originated at Emory University after the interfraternity council had banned the Big Apple. Covington "Cuz" Hardee, of Florence, S. C., originated the steps and Bob Rohrer wrote the song. Both are Emory students.

INJUSTICE LOOMS AGAIN

It appears the motion picture industry may again inadvertently ignore authenticated history, this time in a feature picture to be produced under the name, "Triumph Over Pain," in which William T. G. Morton, a Boston dentist, will be given credit for having performed the first operation with a general anesthetic.

With the statue of Dr. Crawford W. Long, of Georgia, in the Hall of Fame at Washington; with a bronze medallion at the University of Pennsylvania acclaiming him as the first to use ether as an anesthetic in surgery; with a monument at Jefferson, Ga., and with scores of irrefutable documents accepted by students and scientists everywhere as proof of his claim to the honor, it had been thought that the issue had long ago been settled for all time.

Nevertheless, plans for the proposed picture seem to deliberately ignore the famous Georgian. Such is the realism of the modern motion picture that, regardless of how false it may be to history, the millions who witness a screen presentation accept what they see as truth. This is unavoidable. Therefore, if "Triumph Over Pain" is produced, as announced, it means that the public generally will be convinced that the Boston dentist was the real hero of the anesthesia discovery, regardless of the mountain of proof to the contrary.

In an article about the proposed picture in the New York Herald-Tribune, it is stated that the studio did not accept the play on which the picture is to be based, and which was written by a Hungarian, Rene Fulp-Miller, without investigation. The article continues: "True, Dr. Crawford W. Long had used anesthesia in Athens, Ga., four years before Morton, and had amputated a negro's finger with the use of ether, but this same Dr. Long had been so unimpressed by the importance of this performance that he had never written a paper on it. The laurels for giving this discovery to the world, therefore, went to Morton."

If the studio had investigated a little farther, it would have discovered that "the laurels" it describes have gone to Dr. Long. What finer laurels are required than the Hall of Fame statue, the medallion at the University of Pennsylvania, the monument at Jefferson, Dr. Long's birthplace, and innumerable acknowledgments in many publications?

It is also false to say that Dr. Long did not "write a paper" on his discovery. His first operations with ether were performed in 1842, four years before it was used by Morton, of Boston, in 1846. He first made the discovery known to students and practicing physicians at Athens and in all the territory adjacent. It must be remembered that dissemination of the written or printed word was much more difficult, in those days, than it is now.

Dr. Long published the story of his discovery in 1849 in the Southern Medical and Surgical Journal. Foreign medical journals give Dr. Long full credit for his discovery. Photographic copies of the proofs of his discovery are today on exhibition at the Medical Museum in London. His discovery has been substantiated in the British Medical Journal and before the British Medical Conference by George Foy, M. D., F. R. S. C., F. R. A. M. Dr. Long's portrait, as the discoverer of surgical anesthesia, hangs in the Anesthetists' Hall of the Royal Society of Medicine in London.

In addition, he has been acclaimed in outstanding medical journals, and through other channels, in all parts of the world, even as far as Australia.

In view of the incontrovertible proof of Dr. Long's discovery, and the general acceptance by scientific men all over the world of that proof, it is deplorable that one of the major motion picture studios should plan such a picture as is announced.

The studio, if it wishes, can find all the salient facts on the question in a booklet written by the late Dr. Joseph Jacobs, of Atlanta.

WISDOM IN DELAY

City council, in deferring action on the proposal to create ten one-way streets of important traffic arteries, acted wisely. The time of Christmas shopping with its attendant increase in traffic is no time to make changes in rules for vehicles using the city streets.

Drivers are accustomed to the present regulations and any far-reaching change at this time would only prove confusing, and the attempt to enforce the new rules against a city unfamiliar with them, would cause greater confusion.

There is no doubt that far-reaching changes in the traffic rules of Atlanta must be made. Whether or not the one-way street plan now outlined provides the answer or not, no one can deny the existence of a very serious problem. The congestion on the streets, especially during the morning and afternoon rush hours, is fast becoming unbearable.

But, having put up with it to this date, it is certainly true Atlanta can put up with it until after the Christmas rush. Council was undoubtedly wise in postponing action on the proposal until its January meeting. At the same time, however, it must not be forgotten that a traffic solution must be quickly found and it is to be hoped the plan offered will receive serious consideration in the new year.

THE "LONE EAGLE" RETURNS

The unexpected return to this country of Colonel Charles Lindbergh and his wife turns, once again, the spotlight of public interest upon this harassed pair.

The Lindberghs have developed the art of keeping their own affairs to themselves to a surprising finesse. At any rate, no one, outside of their immediate families and friends, has any inkling of the purpose of the return to their native land.

The avid curiosity of the public, the constant pressure of hero-worshipping millions, and the agony of an inescapable spotlight, forced Colonel Lindbergh and his wife to leave this country two years ago. They sought, successfully, the peace of England with its chance for seclusion. They found, in that less hysterical land, the opportunity to enjoy private life in privacy.

Of course, back of the too persistent attention of the American mob, were emotions of sympathy and admiration. Whatever the motivating sentiments, however, the result was an irritation that, understandably, at last became unbearable. So the Lindberghs left America.

Today they are back, whether for long or for short stay, is not announced. The kindest reception America can extend to a beloved pair is to leave them alone, to permit them the privilege of private life as enjoyed by average Americans.

Few realize the agony of constant residence in a glass house, of eternal enactment of the role of the goldfish. The Lindberghs have learned, by bitter experience, that it can be the most cruel affront of fate.

REPUBLICANS WANT NEW LEADERS

The Institute of Public Opinion has revealed that the rank and file of the Republican party is dissatisfied with its present leadership. "They believe," says the Institute report after a careful survey, "that the development of new leaders is more important than the development of a new program."

Thus it is apparent that the average member of the party is better informed on the causes for the party decline than are the men who assume to lead. For, if ever a political party lacked proper leadership, it is the minority of the two major groups in the United States today.

The selection of Governor Alf Landon to carry the G. O. P. banner in the last presidential campaign was ill-advised. Governor Landon is a man of high ethical standards and fine character. Yet as the national standard bearer for a great political following he was woefully inadequate. Little known to the man on the street, largely colorless and lacking in popular appeal, he was doomed from the start.

Former President Hoover is hopeless material for new leadership. His name is too closely associated with the dark depression days and his failure to take constructive action in that emergency will be remembered against him.

Some day the Republicans will again be a force to be reckoned with in national politics. But that day will not come until they develop leaders far different, and with far greater popular appeal, than any who sit in their party councils today.

AN AMAZING EFFORT

The National Labor Relations Board has overstepped the bounds of its authority in attempting to force the editor of "Mill and Factory" to obey its command to produce his editorial records and notes.

In this demand the board attempts to constitute itself as judge, jury and prosecutor. So long as properly constituted courts remain, there are legal channels by which those who feel themselves abused, whether federally appointed boards or not, may seek redress.

Regardless of what was said in the editorial in issue, the demand of the NLRB constitutes a serious attack upon the freedom of the press in America. There has been no charge that the publication involved violated any laws of decency or proper standards of dignity. Merely that the editorial expressed opinions which the NLRB resented.

It is natural to expect a publication such as "Mill and Factory," frankly a trade organ and one admittedly partisan in its views, to publish articles supporting its side in any controversy. The man who would resent this does not belong in judicial position.

Regardless of the accuracy of the editorial arguments, regardless of the mental and emotional reaction of the members of the NLRB, the fact remains that that board has no authority to assume the functions of a punitive trial court in a matter involving its own complaint.

And, furthermore, the day has not yet come in America when the editorial right to free expression of views is to be denied to any publisher, whether he heads a great daily newspaper, a prominent magazine or the most obscure of trade journals.

The Chinese recuperate amazingly, and soon no doubt will be running special trains out to the peace-devastated areas.

The long-sought theme tune for the Italian cabinet is found—and just as Il Duce is taking over one more portfolio—viz., "me, myself and I."

Editorial of the Day

NEW TYPE CASTLES?

(From the Spartanburg Herald.)

It sounds like a whimsical notion and yet there is an element of stern reality in saying that a new type of fortified home or castle is about to arrive. Architects in important cities are considering how roofs may be constructed to endure bombing and to sustain anti-aircraft guns in energetic action. Scores of high-power anti-aircraft guns set high on skyscrapers' roofs in New York city, for instance, and manned by expert gunners, could help materially in making the air above unhealthy for enemy bombers.

Over in Europe people who are able to do it are burrowing underneath their homes to prepare bomb-proof refuges. No doubt many a roof will be built to stand up under anti-aircraft guns in action. All of this at least reminds one of the days when important families lived in fortress homes called castles. Gun powder knocked them out of the picture. Will airplanes bring back fortified homes of a new style?

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

MORGENTHAU, YOUNG ROOSEVELT ROW WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. The great tax revision drama is rapidly becoming a slapstick farce. In the end, the lovers may be united; business may get its longed-for modifications in the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes. But, for the present, the goings on are pretty funny.

One of the latest was an unholy row between Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and the President's secretary-son, James Roosevelt.

At the beginning of the congressional session, the President, Secretary Morgenthau and the influential members of the house ways and means committee worked out a tax program together. There were to be fairly extensive modifications, although the principle of the undistributed profits tax was to be retained. The details of the revision were to be carefully studied by the ways and means committee. Action was to be deferred until the regular session.

Everything was nicely settled, and everyone was happy. Then James Roosevelt entered the picture. He had some notions of his own about taxes, borrowed from such conservative presidential advisers as Joseph P. Kennedy, the New Deal's tame capitalist. He believed that the tax revision ought to take place at once, during the special session, as an immediate stimulant to business.

He began talking his idea to his father, to the leaders of the ways and means committee, and to Morgenthau. Morgenthau feared that the program which had been adopted was about to be upset. He wanted to discuss the matter with the President. The President was very busy, and James Roosevelt sought to act as his father's deputy. Morgenthau, feeling himself out in the cold, lost his temper rather completely, and the unholy row between the two men ensued.

FATHER OF TAX MOURNS To balance the fuss started by James Roosevelt's spasm of conservatism, there is the fuss which threatens to start over the left-wing tendencies of Treasury General Counsel Herman Oliphant. Oliphant has accidentally built a congressional fire under the policies of his chief, Secretary Morgenthau.

Oliphant is the proud father of the undistributed profits tax. The present agitation against it makes him feel like a fond parent watching his child being sacrificed to Mammon. Secretary Morgenthau is perfectly aware of Oliphant's views. Indeed, Oliphant has taken every opportunity to try to woo Morgenthau away from his desire to conciliate business. Because of the disagreement, Undersecretary Roswell Magill has been made the Treasury's tax spokesman.

A few days ago, Oliphant was invited to speak before a forum of liberal congressmen run by the forceful Texas left-winger, Maury Maverick. Morgenthau heard of the invitation, and forbade Oliphant to air his views on taxes in his speech.

Oliphant's speech to the forum was innocuous enough. But when he was done he offered to answer questions. Perfectly naturally, the congressmen present asked him about the proposed modification of his undistributed profits tax. Equally naturally, Oliphant said what he thought about the tax-change schemes. After all, his speech was over. He had obeyed orders, and kept silent until the time for general discussion came.

Nevertheless, Oliphant's remarks stirred up the liberal legislators. Never very friendly to the tax changes, they became open enemies. And now there is a strong move afoot among them to fight the tax changes on the floor.

OLIPHANT SEES SMOKE SCREEN Oliphant's theory is that businessmen are using the business recession as a smoke screen to cover the repeal of a good law. Other left-wingers in the administration are equally convinced that the effort to modify the capital gains tax is unjustified. Both groups maintain stoutly that the taxes had no jot of title of responsibility for the business situation. Oddly enough, the President and a number of the responsible Treasury officials who are backing modification of the taxes have the same suspicion that the recession is being used to club the government out of perfectly reasonable taxes. But they believe that modifications are necessary as producers of confidence in the business community. In fact, they are ready to give the baby a soother, but not a bottle.

A sign of this is the fact that the President is known not to approve the recently announced "vinyl" plan, in which the corporation tax on large corporations are very considerable. When his tooth stops troubling him, he is expected to get to work on the house ways and means committee to keep the modifications down to the soother point.

And unless the senate stages a rebellion later on, business is likely to have to do without a bottle and accept a soother instead. Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

It's nice to think
Of a summer day
With the fields
All green and gold,
As you shiver
Under winter's sway
And the wind
Blows bitter cold

Why We Feel Cold.

It was Monday. Collar turned up and hands deep in pockets, I hurried along the street. And overheard a negro couple talking as they hurried on ahead of me.

"It's not so cold," he told her. "Just 'cause our hides ain't steady ter it."

The Gift Of Music.

I once had a friend, a young fellow who could read music, that strange gift of musical ability. I doubt if there is an instrument he couldn't play—most of them well, too. Any of the customary string or wind instruments of the orchestra, anyway.

He could read music, of course, but depended more upon ear. I have, many times, played fairly difficult piano arrangements for him when we would be together after a few days' absence. The score in question might have involved quite a struggle on my part to play halfway decently.

He'd listen and, when I was through, say "play it again, won't you?" And I'd play it again. Then he'd come to the piano, toss the score aside, and from memory, play it better than I had with the music. Maybe not quite as accurately to the printed notes, but better sounding and more effective anyway.

Playing With An Orchestra.

He enjoyed nothing more than to play in an orchestra and, when we came to a new town for a stay of a few weeks or months, he'd promptly hunt up the conductor of the best orchestra there. He'd inquire, diplomatically, and if there was a musicians' union he'd produce his union card. If there wasn't, he'd not mention the card at all.

The first question from the conductor, naturally, would be "what instrument do you play?" And he would answer "what do you lack?" But his favorite was the "cello," though for convenience in transportation he carried a violin with him.

Sparetime Amusement.

When he and I had spare time on our hands, we'd find amusement in running through operatic scores. I'd be at the piano and he'd take the melodies of the singers with his violin.

One Sunday evening at dinner, in the home of a sweet old maid who was very strict about Sabbath observance, we faced an embarrassing question. We knew the dear old lady disapproved of any music on Sundays except psalms and hymns.

And she asked what we had done that afternoon! I decided to be brave and tell the truth. So informed her we had played several of our favorite Gilbert and Sullivan operas. She looked shocked for a moment. Then smiled. "To an Englishman, Gilbert and Sullivan music is sacred, at that. And I know Mister Black (my friend) played upon his fiddle, D.D., so it must be all right."

We Had A Lot of Fun.

I sometimes think the young people of today miss a lot of fun that was quartered away ago. I know it bears the stigma of "The Nineties," but I doubt if anyone today gets as much real enjoyment out of the radio or bridge as we used to get out of those old sessions around the piano. Especially when there was a crowd present to sing.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Sunday, December 8, 1912:

"Mr. and Mrs. James Williams Lippcomb, of Greenville, S. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Bessie May, to Mr. Ralph T. Jones, of Atlanta, the marriage to take place January 14."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Thursday, December 8, 1887:

"The weather last night acted as a deterrent upon many persons whose dislike of rain and mud was stronger than their love of good music. But all who attended Miss Emma Hahr's concert—and the audience was a representative one—were amazed at and delighted with the entertainment."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Marital NEW YORK, Dec. 7. Tangle Ernest Simpson, of London, the former husband of Dorothea Parsons Simpson and of the Duchess of Windsor, the former wife of Commander Earl Winfield Spencer, U. S. N., the former husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer and husband of Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson Spencer, has married Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray, the former wife of Jacques Achille Louis Raffray, who has married Mrs. Connie De Bower, the former wife of Herbert De Bower.

Mr. De Bower is the ex-husband of the wife of the ex-husband of both Dorothea Parsons Simpson and the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer, the husband of Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson Spencer.

Or, to put it otherwise, the Duke of Windsor's wife is the ex-wife of the husband of the ex-wife of Mr. De Bower and four to carry. Or, still otherwise, the ex-wife of the husband of Mr. De Bower's ex-wife is the wife of the ex-husband of the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of the present Mrs. Spencer and carry one.

Or, perhaps more simply, Mrs. Dorothea Parsons Simpson is the ex-wife of the husband of the ex-wife of the husband of the ex-wife of Mr. De Bower and, by the same process, is ex-wife of the ex-husband of the ex-husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer.

And So Water won't quench What?

fire; stick won't burn dog; dog won't bite pig; pig won't climb over the stile and the old lady can't get home tonight.

Mr. Raffray is the ex-husband of the wife of the ex-husband of the ex-wife of the ex-husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of Mr. Raffray's own ex-husband, the ex-husband of Dorothea Parsons Simpson, and is himself the husband of the ex-wife of Mr. De Bower, whose present status is that of ex-husband.

Take one blue bottle from 99 blue bottles, leaving 98 blue bottles hanging on the wall; take one blue bottle from 98 blue bottles, leaving 97 blue bottles hanging on the wall; take one blue bottle from 97 blue bottles, leaving 96 blue bottles hanging on the wall.

At a formal dinner party a punctilious hostess would have an interesting problem seating all the guests in such a manner that no ex-husband should be placed next to either his present or ex-wife nor any guest next to the present husband or wife of his or her ex-spouse.

Pull Up
A Chair

Eleven guests present a seating problem, anyway, and it would be necessary to place the present Mrs. Raffray next to the present Mrs. Spencer. The Duke could be seated between the present Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Dorothea Parsons Simpson. Commander Spencer would be at the left of Mrs. Dorothea Parsons Simpson, with the present Mrs. Simpson on his left and Mr. De Bower on her left and the Duchess to the left of him. (This is a circular table.)

Then comes Mr. Raffray, then the ex-Mrs. Spencer, then the present Mrs. Raffray and finally Simpson. He would be only one place removed from the Duke, and the Duchess would be next to the ex-husband of the present wife of one of her ex-husbands. Mr. De Bower would be on the left of Mrs. Simpson, the ex-wife of his ex-wife's husband.

This is genteel company, and there need be no embarrassment over this proximity, although it might be advisable in the entertainment after dinner to avoid the game of musical chairs, which might result in confusion.

It has been estimated that if marriage and divorce were extended in the same ratio to the entire civilized population for a few generations and each marriage resulted in at least two children, the world would be just one great, big, happy family.

A Doctor Finished the Ri

But a Poet Gave Paul

Revere the Fame

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Ambitious youngsters, dreaming of a glorious future, assume that success is won by some knack or secret process they have not yet discovered. Well, so it is; but the knack is a secret from those who have succeeded.

Of course there are certain well-known rules that count to success. If success consists only in making money, the process is simple. One must possess, or cultivate, if that is possible, the mental attitude of the trader. This consists in the passionate conviction that things he wishes to buy has little value, while anything he wishes to sell is worth a great deal.

There is this conviction: he will buy low and sell high, and matters little whether the thing he buys is wheat, real estate or labor and talent of other men. The important thing, since money is his goal, is to go where money is.

If the kind of success desired includes fame as well as money, it is doubly important to go where money is, but for a different reason. It is called putting up a front.

It is possible while living in a small town to win both money and fortune. Elbert Hubbard, William Allen White, Ed Howard the Mayo brothers did it. But while Romans are famous, the town to win fame is Rome.

The drummer of pre-war days knew the trick. He hailed Oshkosh or Kalamazoo, but he averted the natives by registering New York. And Rockefeller, advertising for tenants a few years ago, reminded them that his building was an address would them prestige.

But it does not follow that a person with talent, even the most famous of New York's buildings, will win success to which he seems entitled.

Consider the contrasting fortunes of two New York writers. One has learning, wisdom, charm of style and the knack of saying much in a simple and entertaining way. He ranks near top, yet his income is moderate and he is known outside the city only among the literati.

The other is inaccurate and untrustworthy. His grammar is bad and he can't spell. His best lines are stolen. He has learning, and his work contains no wisdom or instruction, yet he is rich and famous.

So, you see, it really is a secret. Public favor, on which success depends, is given to one and denied to another, and not known the explanation. It may be that good work always is recognized, but in many cases, as you know, it happens long after workman's death.

Isn't it much you can do except to ring the bell, if you and hope that a number of people will say "Attaboy!" (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Vittorio Mussolini's Book.

NEW YORK—Killing is glorified in a book written by the Duce's pet son, Vittorio, who participated as an aviator in the Ethiopian campaign and in the raid on open Spanish towns. The book has been received with enthusiastic acclaim by the Fascist youth of Italy, the reviewers hailing it as the real voice of Italian youth. There can be no doubt that Vittorio, 20-year-old, is the real author of the book. No ghost writer would have had such candid cynicism in describing the thrill of throwing bombs on defenseless civilians. There are paragraphs in this volume wherein young Mussolini almost waxes lyrical and compares the bleeding Ethiopian cavaliers killed from the air to red roses in the wind.

Vittorio seems to have inherited the versatility of Italy's modern cynicism. If you remember, he is the same youth who came over to these shores to learn the secret of American motion picture success in Hollywood. Instead of being acclaimed, however, Hollywood is reported to have given him the cold shoulder, and young Mussolini in curtailing his visit and returned to Italy, cured of his dreams to compete with American motion picture industry.

The Duce, however, is said to be rather peeved at the reception his strapping received in this country. We are reliably informed that distribution of American films in Italy will receive a death blow before long. It is a fact that representatives of American companies in Italy have already appealed to the Hays office to appease Mussolini and work out an acceptable deal.

The Pulse of the Public

The columns of The Constitution are always open to the expressions of the public. The only limitation on comment is that it shall be signed, be brief—preferably not longer than two or three hundred words—and be pertinent. All communications will be subject to editing and none will be returned unless postage is enclosed.

EVIL OF
IONALISM
For Constitution: Your editorial, "The South Again the Victim of Sectional Greed, Jealousy, and a Forceful Extension of the True Status of the Economic Situation," is a masterpiece of clear thinking and vigorous journalism. We, of the south, are crying for low wage and other ills, instead of our critics lending aid to "their weaker brother," strive to make matters worse. At the south needs today is the so-called "New Deal," but the New Deal economically and a nation of our world market option, our principal product.

SOUTH IS
VICTIM
Editor Constitution: I read with great interest your editorial, "The South a Victim of Jealousy and Greed." I agree with you that the south is going to get the worst of the farm bill and the wages bill, and incidentally, small business will be entirely wiped out by the latter, but I don't think the south is the victim of any feeling against the section by the rest of the country. We are the victims of a system of grab that is the natural result of the New Deal idea that the government must make us prosperous. Groups combine their interests to get what they can for themselves without regard for its effect on the entire country. In this instance, the industrial east is making a deal with the middle west and the south gets the licking both ways. The east gets its wages and hours bill and the west gets its favors from the farm bill and the south takes what is left, which is not much.

We should abandon the idea that, in the long run, we can expect any great benefits from the government. Let us get back to the old idea of government of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none," and the south will work out its own problems and continue to forge ahead as it has for the past 25 years.

EDITORIAL PRAISED
BY WM. H. FLEMING
Editor Constitution: I have been struck with a number of very able editorials in your paper in recent months, and this applies particularly to the leading editorial in your issue of Sunday, December 5, 1937.
John C. Calhoun had the same political, sectional fight on hand, but he was encumbered with the institution of slavery from which we, thank God, are free. Therein we moderns have the advantage over him in solving our political difficulties.
The only possible solution of such conflicting interests lies in an honest acceptance of the principle of "Give and Take."

NICHOLSON NAMED TO RED CROSS POST

North Carolinian To Direct First Aid Here.

Russell C. Nicholson, of Raleigh, N. C., has been named by the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross to assume direction of first aid and life-saving, Red Cross officials made known yesterday.

Nicholson, in addition to directing Red Cross first aid work, will establish and conduct a second school in first aid for Georgia state highway patrol officers at the Old Soldiers' Home, Major John C. Carter, patrol director, announced.

Nicholson was graduated from North Carolina State College last June, where he was a member of the life-saving corps. He served as director of the water safety campaign in Wake county, North Carolina, last summer and was a member of the faculty of the National Aquatic school, at Brevard, N. C. He comes to Atlanta directly from the Hugh Morrison High school, at Raleigh, N. C., where he was an instructor in physical education.

Royalist Party Seeks Windsors To Rule U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The Royalist Party of America, claiming to be incorporated in Kansas, today proposed the Duke of Windsor and his American-born Duchess as King and Queen of the United States and Charlie McCarthy as the sole member of congress.

Copies of a circular signed by Donald W. Stewart, national chairman, were distributed about the capital, inviting the attention of Chairman James A. Farley, of the Democratic national committee, and Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, of the Republican national committee, to its program.

NEED OF BALANCED BUDGET STRESSED

Lawmakers Who Won't Help Expense Cuts Denounced by Fiscal Aide.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Members of congress unwilling to serve the "national interest" by helping to halt "untimely, uneconomic expenditures" and to balance the budget were denounced tonight by an administration fiscal officer as unfit to hold their jobs.
Such steps of retrenchment, said Wayne C. Taylor, fiscal assistant secretary of the treasury, in an address prepared for delivery before the Economic Club of New York, were "inimical, national welfare requirements."
"The President, the secretary of the treasury and other administration spokesmen have stated vigorously and repeatedly their conviction that untimely, uneconomic expenditures in the form of public works or excessive subsidies to areas, industries and economic groups must stop," he went on.

"Many of our representatives in both houses of congress have endorsed these statements, and polls of public sentiment have clearly indicated that the country realizes the necessity for a balanced budget."

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission, asked Roosevelt administration critics to "stop bellyaching" and added "it isn't going to do you any good."

Speaking extemporaneously before the Economic Club, Kennedy followed Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, to the rostrum.

Senator Glass spoke without manuscript in tones of dry humor during his references to the administration.

"I note that the subject of the discussion tonight," he remarked, "is 'balancing the national budget.' Well, it may be that the distinguished assistant secretary of the treasury will be able to tell you gentlemen when and how that will be done; but I prophesy in advance of his address, however clever and accomplished it may be, that it can never be done by undertaking to spend the nation into prosperity."

Body Telescopes Used by Doctors To Fight Cancer

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Two of medicine's telescopes, the bronchoscope and gastroscope, which have been used to save the lives of thousands of boys and girls who swallow open safety pins and toy whistles, are rapidly graduating into wider fields of usefulness, a Medical College of Virginia scientist said today.

Dr. Porter Vinson, a leading body-telescope specialist, declared that these instruments are rapidly developing into widespread usefulness in diagnosing and treating tumors and cancer of the lungs and stomach. These ailments formerly were treated by radical operations to remove the growths.

With these telescopes, Dr. Vinson declared, it is possible to look directly into the stomach and lungs through a series of mirrors and examine directly ulcers or tumors. It is also possible to snip off a tiny bit of tissue which, when placed under the microscope, shows immediately the nature of the growth and indicates the treatment necessary.

In many patients these growths do not show up in an X-ray examination but are clearly shown by the bronchoscope or gastroscope which, with a tiny electric light near the end of the instrument, is introduced deep into the lungs or stomach.

DRUG AUTHORITY DIES.

CHAMBER TO HEAR DELAWARE BANKER

Gilbert T. Stephenson Conducting 'Trust Research Week' Here.

Gilbert T. Stephenson, of Wilmington, Del., director of the trust division of the American Bankers' Association, will address the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at 12:30 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

In Atlanta to conduct a "trust research week," the banker is making addresses before bankers and other organization meetings. His subject today is "The Value of the Trust Institutions to Atlanta."

Tomorrow Stephenson will address the student body of the Lumpkin Law school of the University of Georgia.

Paying tribute to the association's educational activities, Stephenson yesterday addressed 500 employees of the local banks and members of the Atlanta chapter of the American Institute of Banking, who had assembled in the lobby of the First National Bank.

At a meeting of Atlanta trust officers and insurance men last night, Stephenson spoke on "Trusteeship."

LINT LOSSES LAID TO UNDER-GRADING

Investigator Charges Loan Cotton Classified $2.75 to $3.50 a Bale Off.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A senate committee received allegations today that "heavy losses" had been suffered by the government or the cotton farmers by improper classification of cotton.

Lawrence Westbrook, former WPA official, who made the report, said some government loan cotton handled by the American Co-operative Association had been under-graded $2.75 to $3.50 a bale. He added that while there was evidence the farmers took these losses, an audit would be necessary to determine positively whether the government or the growers suffered them.

Chairman Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee, made public the report after a disagreement among committee members over the question of voting an additional $25,000 for the investigation. An original $10,000 appropriation is almost exhausted, Westbrook said.

One of the objectors was Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, who said he had also opposed selection of Westbrook as the committee investigator.

Westbrook said his investigation had not advanced far enough to "permit final determination of the extent of such improper classification, nor is it yet possible to draw conclusions as to culpability." He said, however, a first check "strongly indicated" violation of the cotton standards act, though it did not fix responsibility for the violations.

ITALIAN ENGINEER GETS HONORS FOR DISCOVERY

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—For taming water hammer, the "knock" in the radiator dangerous as dynamite in big hydraulic projects, Lorenzo Allievi, Italian engineer, tonight was given the highest award of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers—honorary membership.

The Italian discovered, by Mathematics, the mysterious force which makes a water hammer. The society, in annual meeting, tomorrow begins a two-day symposium explaining the details.

INSTALLMENT III

"Margot, he loves me—he's kidnapping me!"

The maid shook her head. "That doesn't make sense," she said.

Elsa did an impromptu dance step. "Nothing makes sense, Margot," she said. "It's all mad—and glorious—and—"

"Have you been drinking?" Margot asked suspiciously.

Elsa laughed delightedly. "No," she replied. "But I'm drunk!"

She crossed the hall and knocked on the door of Jim's apartment.

Pancho, decked out as an Argentine gaucho, answered Elsa's knock. He made a sweeping bow. "Welcome, Senorita," he said.

"Why, Pancho," Elsa said, "you look magnificent."

Pancho looked at his costume and shrugged. "South American plus fours," he explained. Jim, also attired as a gaucho, came to the door and added his greetings. From the next room there came the soft strains of guitars. Jim led Elsa to the dining room and opened the doors. Elsa gasped.

The floor was covered with grass matting and on it was spread a picnic cloth. The walls were covered with a backdrop of the Pampas, with a large moon against a starlit sky shedding the only illumination.

Jim gestured to the room. "The Argentine, senorita," he explained. "Always there is music—always a full moon."

Elsa's eyes twinkled. "Doesn't that get monotonous?" she inquired.

Jim shrugged. "You can always turn it off," he said. He touched the light switch and the moon blinked off.

Elsa shook her head in mock wonderment. "An amazing country," she commented. "But I'm afraid. The moonlight's too alluring. The music too seductive—the scent of the pampas grass overwhelms me."

After dinner Jim urged her to make a decision about the trip. Elsa, in a teasing mood, kept postponing it. "You gave me until midnight," she explained.

Elsa wandered into the living room and saw a large revolving globe of the world. Her eyes twinkled mischievously as she turned to Jim. "Look," she said, pointing to the map. "Here's Paris."

and here's Buenos Aires. I'll close my eyes, you spin the globe and I'll put my finger on a spot. Whichever place the spot is nearest, we'll go."

Jim hesitated a moment and then agreed. Elsa shut her eyes—that is, she almost shut them—and Jim spun the globe. As she reached out with her right hand Jim saw that it was heading for France. Furtively, he accelerated the globe but Elsa, through her semi-closed lids, saw his move. She quickly pointed with her left hand and opened her eyes.

"Why, it's France!" she cried. "It looks as though we're going to Paris."

"Speak for yourself," Jim said. "I must go to Buenos Aires. At least we have dinner together tomorrow night—alone—and then I'll take you to the boat."

Elsa smiled. "All right, Jim," she said tenderly.

They had dinner the next night at Lepino's. Elsa pretended to become giddy with the wine. "You're a bad boy," she chided tipsily. "We shouldn't have waited until the last minute like this. Madella will be frantic."

Jim smiled indulgently. His plan was working perfectly. "You've got plenty of time," he reassured her.

When he had placed Elsa in the taxicab for her pier he quietly instructed the driver to go to the "Orinoco's" berth. En route Jim gave Elsa a pair of dark glasses. "Wear these," he told her. "They'll help you duck the reporters and the photographers."

"Oh, Jim, you think of everything," Elsa said, taking the glasses and putting them on. "Oh! I can't see a thing."

Jim smiled. "You just hold onto me. You'll be all right."

Jim hurried Elsa up the gangplank and into her cabin and they were joined almost immediately by Pancho and Margot. Pancho had done his job well and Margot was feeling very high. Jim poured champagne for them all. "To a happy voyage" was the toast.

Once again a mischievous light came to Elsa's eyes. "I tell you what," she suggested, "let's all go and see Madella and Rudi."

Jim hurriedly blocked her way to the door. "No," he said. "We mustn't disturb them. They've got a sign on their door and the stewardess says they are asleep."

Elsa persisted. "Oh, come on, Madella loves to be awakened." Jim took her by the arm and led her back into the stateroom.

"Please," he murmured, "just us." Elsa took his hand. "That's right, Jim, we may never be alone again," she said.

"Don't say that," Jim replied. "We may meet sooner than you expect."

"How can we?" Elsa asked. "You'll be in Buenos Aires and I'll be in Paris. How can we meet—unless you kidnap me now and take me with you?"

Pancho, who had been gulping some champagne, almost choked. Elsa, to hide her laughter, went to the window of her stateroom. Outside, against the deckrail, she saw a life preserver with the stencil: "S. S. Orinoco," Elsa sighed. "What a beautiful night," she said and started to open the door to the deck.

Jim joined her and he, too, saw the life preserver. He hastily stood in front of it and, while he talked with Elsa, surreptitiously unfastened it. He pushed it over the side and it fell into the water below with a loud splash.

"What was that?" Elsa asked. "A sea-gull, I guess," Jim replied.

"What about your boat, Jim?" Elsa asked. "Doesn't it sail at midnight, too?"

THE ROMAN PANTHEON.

ROME, Italy: On my way to Rome, I was told that the train would surely be on time. The trains I took from Switzerland to Milan, and from Milan to Florence, had been an hour or two late in each case.

I did get to Rome just about on time. People say Mussolini has ordered the trains to run on schedule, and the railroad workers seem to feel he can "pick up" more closely at his capital city.

The building still stands, and the dome is the largest (but not the highest) in the world. It is close to 140 feet wide on the inside, making it wider than the famous dome on St. Peter's church. In some places, the walls of the Pantheon are 20 feet thick.

In the year 680, the Pantheon was turned into a Christian church and the statues of gods and goddesses were taken out of it.

When St. Peter's church was being built three centuries ago the bronze from the dome of the Pantheon was taken away. The bronze weighed 430,000 pounds and part of it was used in making the bronze pillars for the canopy over the high altar of St. Peter's.

Looking at the Pantheon today we may think of the time when the Romans went there to sacrifice to Jupiter and Juno, to Mars and Venus, to Neptune and Minerva. The opening at the top of the dome is 28 feet wide and supplies a fair amount of light.

NAVY PROGRAM HELP BUSINESS NDS 30 MILLION

is Constructed in Pri-Yards Is to Keep War Equipment Up.

SHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Navy to expedite government purchases as a stimulus to business today for the construction of four new ships.

Two Destroyers.
Construction of one 1,500-ton destroyer was awarded to the Puget Navy Yard, Bremerton, and another to the Charles C. yard, at a total estimated cost of $9,204,295.

Contracts which call for construction of the two auxiliaries in 1938, would require 800 men in their construction nearly as many on the destroyers.

Progress provided that at least the navy's construction be in progress by the end of the year.

ION DOLLAR PLAN
MERCHANT MARINE
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Maritime Commission, it was authorized today, is to start within the next two weeks a multi-million dollar program for rehabilitating the American merchant marine.

Official said that "in a week's time" bids would be asked on $20,000,000 worth of construction. This will include at least a dozen 9,000-ton vessels, costing about $1,000 each.

To Build Tankers.
The commission also has proposed a tanker construction program in conjunction with 10 oil companies, headed by Standard Oil of New Jersey. The companies to bear the basic cost of the ships, the government paying for building into them such features as will make them suitable for naval auxiliaries in war.

The national defense features proposed for these vessels include only abnormal speed but also provisions for mounting guns, using up airplanes from the surface of the sea and refueling warships in the open sea.

In addition the commission is to be used as a training ship to cost of between $400,000 to $1,000,000.

B. B. in His Ear, Boy Shuns Help

Four-year-old Darrell Merritt was hiding B-B shot on the bed at his 1077 Hampden street, N. W. home yesterday.

Quite by accident he hid one in his ear. His father took him to Grady hospital. There, the youngster preferred to keep the shot in his ear rather than have it removed.

The father said he would take him back today to have the shot removed.

RIVERS DEDICATES HARPST HOME UNIT

New Building To Provide for 50 Boys on Institution's Farm.

CEDARTOWN, Dec. 7.—Emphasizing the humanitarian purposes of his administration, with particular reference to education and child welfare, Governor Rivers this afternoon delivered the dedicatory address at the formal opening of the new administration building and home at the Harpst Home Farm near here.

Governor Rivers paid tribute to the worthwhile purposes and to the success of the institution in providing a home and educational advantages for approximately 150 boys and girls, and added that Georgia is leading the way in providing for the underprivileged child. The Harpst Home is sponsored by the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Expansion Program.
The dedicatory exercises marked the opening of an expanded program for the institution, according to plans outlined by Miss Ethel Harpst, its founder and director.

Located on a fertile farm near Cedartown, the new building will provide a home for 50 boys and will give them an opportunity to learn modern farming methods. The new building, together with several others at the home proper, was made possible through gifts by Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer, of New York, who shared honors in laying the cornerstone with Mrs. W. H. C. Good, of Sidney, Ohio, national president of the missionary society.

Introduced by Mundy.
Governor Rivers was presented by Colonel W. W. Mundy, veteran member of the state general assembly. W. D. Trippe, also a member of the legislature from Polk county, acted as master of ceremonies.

Mr. Trippe introduced Mrs. Pfeiffer and Mrs. Good, Mrs. H. Freeman, national treasurer of the missionary society; Mrs. D. N. Secore, of Kingston, N. Y., a member of the official party, and Miss Harpst. He also introduced members of the Governor's party, including Herman Watson, member of the State Highway Board; Major Phillip Brewster, state director of public safety; Mrs. W. J. McWaters, member of the State School Book Commission, and others.

REALTORS TO GATHER
IN SAVANNAH TONIGHT
SAVANNAH, Dec. 7.—(P)—A banquet followed by a meeting of officers, directors and the advisory council will open the 17th annual convention of the Georgia Real Estate Association tomorrow night.

Convention business sessions will begin Thursday morning with addresses of welcome by Mayor Robert Hitch and Fred Wessels Sr., of Savannah, president of the Atlantic Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and response by Adrian B. Sherman, Augusta realtor.

The major time of the three-day meeting will be given to discussions of real estate problems and addresses by leading realtors and other businessmen.

Hapeville Voters Take Election Seriously

Judging from the rapt attention S. J. Dunson, right above, is giving the ballot which Mrs. W. H. Tucker, ballot box manager, left, is explaining to him, Hapeville citizens take their government seriously. The photographer's flash failed to divert Dunson for even a moment.

J. D. Kemp, former Hapeville city councilman, who sought re-election, his countenance a picture of tense concentration as he marks ballot.

Noticing the seriousness and intentness with which his elders were trying to decide whether Hapeville would retain its city charter, Skippy Hamilton, left, took time out from his "cop and robbers" to peer curiously while M. D. Cowan studies the ballot. The election was for a mayor and two councilmen, and included a referendum to determine whether Hapeville citizens desire to retain their city charter.

CARDINAL PLANS DRAMA FOR FILMS

O'Connell To Mark 78th Birthday Today.
BOSTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—On the eve of his seventy-eighth birthday, William Cardinal O'Connell, dean of the Catholic hierarchy in the United States, today said he planned to write a drama for the films. At the same time he voiced optimism concerning current economic and industrial disputes.

Cardinal O'Connell said: "I am now contemplating writing a drama for the screen, a picture of a man supremely honest who would accomplish things by faith. I think it would be a very good thing to do."
"I am an optimist born," he said. "I am looking forward now to a great change in the general outlook of the people."

LEHMAN'S SON TO WED DAUGHTER OF SINGER

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The engagement of Miss Peggy Lashanska, Rosenbaum, whose mother is known on the concert stage as Madame Hulda Lashanska, to Peter G. Lehman, son of Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, was announced today. The wedding will take place early next summer.

VOTERS RE-ELECT HAPEVILLE MAYOR

Surrender of City Charter Favored by Poll of 185 to 169.

Hapeville voters re-elected Mayor J. Raymond Cathy for another term yesterday and voted 185 to 169 for the surrender of the city charter and return to the status of an unincorporated community.

The charter surrender referendum was called to determine the sentiment of the people on the plan to return to the unincorporated community status. City council will now study the plan and is expected to negotiate a feasible means for abandoning the charter.

In the mayor's race Cathy polled 404 votes to John T. Stone's 52. L. A. Norton, incumbent, and C. M. Davis were elected members of city council, winning over six opponents.

Voting was as follows: A. T. Cook, 138; C. M. Davis, 191; Paul W. Hughes, 56; J. D. Kemp, 38; Frank J. McCormack, 38; L. A. Norton, 232; W. A. Walker, 119; H. M. White Sr., 101.

Balloting for the officials and on the referendum were in separate boxes.

FINLAND WILL PAY HER DEBT ON TIME

Still Only One of 13 Nations Undefaulted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—Finland took steps today to preserve its record of prompt payment of its war debt to the United States, notifying this government it would meet the December 15 installment of $232,143 when due.

One of the 13 war debtor nations which together will owe $1,680,170,447 this month, Finland alone has not defaulted in the past.

The other 12 have been in default since 1933. None has given any indication thus far that it intended to resume payments December 15, when semi-annual installments fall due.

The 12 defaulters, and the total due from each next week, including the semi-annual payments and amounts already in arrears: Belgium, $61,300,084; Czechoslovakia, $16,315,400; Estonia, $4,160,287; France, $455,009,163; Great Britain, $994,482,387; Hungary, $487,673; Italy, $84,119,757; Latvia, $1,607,928; Lithuania, $1,353,117; Poland, $51,766,147; Rumania, $7,438,750 and Yugoslavia, $1,913,515.

NOT A LONE WOLF

Russia Won't Fight Without Powers' Help.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Soviet Russia will insist upon full support from other big powers with far eastern interests before her Red Army takes any military action to drive the Japanese back from the frontiers of Outer Mongolia, diplomats reported tonight.

The Soviet Union was said to have informed Great Britain and France that it has no intention of becoming embroiled in a conflict with the Japanese "at present" unless assured of foreign support even though they are confident of military supremacy.

Diplomats believed Moscow was waiting for a weakening of the Japanese before deciding on a policy of war or peace.

FALL INTO HOT WATER IS FATAL TO GIRL, 6

GREENSBORO, Dec. 7.—Six-year-old Edna Moore, daughter of Frank Moore, a guard at the Greene county convict camp, died today of burns received when she fell into a pot of boiling water at her home here Sunday.

She is survived by her father and several brothers and sisters. Her mother died two years ago. Rites will be held Wednesday afternoon in Walker's church, near here.

PLANE CRASH VICTIM BURIED IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 7.—(P)—Funeral services for Albert W. Shepherd, 34, killed in an airplane crash at Little Rock, Ark., Sunday, were held at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mabel E. Shepherd, here this morning.

The body of Shepherd, a retired army air corps officer and a native of Columbus, arrived here from Little Rock last night.

Bootleg Stills Gain As Christmas Nears

The bootleg whisky business in Georgia is picking up—and Alcohol Tax Unit men attribute the increase to the approaching Christmas season.

A total of 96 stills were seized by the federal men during November, compared with 64 during October, W. D. Hearington, district supervisor of the ATU, said. The agents arrested 209 persons in November and 171 in October.

Not only was an increase registered in Georgia, but in Florida, South Carolina and Alabama too, Hearington said.

And because of the work of the agents, $29,961.25 worth of bootleg whisky and stills were destroyed.

HEARING ON NEW TRIAL SET IN BANK ROBBERY

ATHENS, Dec. 7.—Judge Bascom S. Deaver set January 10 for a hearing on a motion for a new trial for Martin Prisament and Frank Cartee, convicted here in federal court last June on a charge of robbing the Commercial Bank of Crawford.

A hearing was scheduled to be held yesterday afternoon in federal court, but Judge Deaver set a new date. The January 10 hearing will be held in Macon.

SOFT DRINK TAXES OPPOSED, 38 TO 25

Battle Appears as Bill Heads for Floor After Wrangle in Committee.

A battle in the house of representatives over taxing soft drinks appeared likely today after the ways and means committee yesterday voted, 38 to 25, to recommend that the soft drink tax bill "do not pass."

Representatives Booth, of Barrow, author of the bill which he declares would raise $3,000,000 annual revenue, and Found, of Hancock, declared they will file a minority report which will bring the soft drink bill to the floor of the lower house for debate, probably within a week.

Wilmer D. Lanier, of Richmond county, led the fight to tax soft drinks in the committee session yesterday. Booth, the author, called for the legislators to vote for the bill because "95 per cent of the people want a tax on soft drinks."

Lanier argued "it is better to tax luxuries than necessities," and asserted that state and county must have more money to make up for revenue lost in exemptions.

"State Losing $4,000,000."
"The state is losing $4,000,000 by exemptions and when you count what the counties will lose, the total will amount to more than $12,000,000 annually," Lanier said.

The committee adopted an amendment to the Booth bill which would make the tax effective only until February 1, 1939. Proponents of the measure said they would be willing to amend it to distribute the revenue to the counties as the school equalization fund is distributed, whereas Booth's bill proposed to give it to the counties on the basis of legislative representation.

The bill provides a 1-cent tax on each 5-cent drink and a tax of 75 cents on each gallon of syrup for such drinks, exempting fruit juice drinks entirely.

A parliamentary snarl developed in the committee when a roll call vote was demanded by Pount. Chairman Freeman, of Bibb, ruled the roll call in order. The vote was 25 ayes and 38 noes. In a show of hands votes the count, not announced, had been 21 ayes and 22 noes.

No More Taxes.

Gross, of Stephens county, fought the bill in committee. He declared he was against any more taxation until the tax system had been revised, and said the soft drink bill would "hit the man who works in the manufacturing plants" without hurting the man with wealth.

Several speakers for the bill made remarks about influences used against it, and Representative Lanham, of Floyd, asked that the bill be reported favorably because "a man connected with a soft drink company declared he had this bill throttled in the committee."

"This thing will come back and sting you if you vote for it," Gross asserted.

John Edmondson introduced as a representative of the soft drink industry, spoke against the bill, declaring the tax would cut the soft drink business 30 per cent, while W. H. Glenn, a bottler from Columbus, said it would ruin 50 per cent of the small bottlers.

MAID FINDS BODY OF EDGAR STRAUSS

Inquest Into Death Will Be Held Today.
Edgar J. Strauss, 27, insurance salesman, was found dead at about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his bedroom at his home at 2834 North Hills drive.

Martha Wilson, a negro maid, discovered the body, she told Lieutenant Cal Cates and Assistant Chief John Oliver, of Fulton county police, who investigated.

The officers reported they found an empty glass on the floor near the body. An inquest into Strauss' death will be held this morning.

Strauss is survived by his wife; his mother, Mrs. Beulah H. Strauss, and a sister, Miss Carolyn Strauss. Funeral plans will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

SERVICES ARE HELD FOR R. M. HUTCHESON

Funeral services for Roland M. Hutcheson, 91, Confederate veteran, who died Monday at his residence, 177 Cooper street, S. W., after an extended illness, were conducted yesterday morning in the chapel of J. Austin Dillon, The Rev. W. H. Cates was in charge and burial was in King's cemetery.

Mr. Hutcheson, who had lived in Atlanta the past 22 years, served in the Confederate army during the last year of the War Between the States. He was born in Clayton county, Georgia.

SOVIET CANDIDATE ASKS UNITED NATION

Commander Says Mobilization Necessary Because
'War Nearer Than Ever.'

MOSCOW, Dec. 7.—(P)—Campaign statements by high Soviet sources tonight urged the people to regard Sunday's election of the supreme Soviet as a "mobilization" to show the world the nation is united.

Marshal Semion Budenny, commander of the Moscow military zone, warned a political rally that it was necessary to mobilize because "war is nearer than ever."

Speaking at Shepetovka, a town near the Polish frontier where he is a candidate for the Soviet of the union, Budenny said:

"We will say outright to the gentlemen capitalists that we have grown so much we will beat them wholesale or retail, day or night, summer or winter or whenever necessary."

Pravda, official organ of the Communist party, featured a party manifesto calling on everyone to go to the polls Sunday as evidence members and non-members of the party were united behind the government.

(The electorate will vote Sunday in Russia's first direct national election. Voters will elect the supreme Soviet provided by the new constitution. They will use secret ballots.)

West Point Restricts All Athletes to Three Years' Play

A GUEST COLUMN

By Bernie Moore

Editor's Note: In the absence of Ralph McGill, today's guest column is written by Bernie Moore, head football coach at Louisiana State University.

The greatest football player I ever saw was a 163-pound halfback who played for Mercer University in Macon, Ga., in 1925, 1926 and 1927.

I think everyone in Georgia who ever saw him play will agree with me that Phoney Smith was one of the greatest players that ever came down the pike.

It was my privilege—and pleasure—to coach Phoney during his last two years at Mercer, where I was head coach in 1926, 1927 and 1928. Few coaches ever get a player so easy to coach as Phoney.

Smith was solidly built and rugged, being about 5 feet 11 inches tall. His physique resembled that of Pinky Rohm, the great little "scat" back who plays for L. S. U.

Phoney could do everything a halfback was supposed to do and do it well. He was beyond a doubt the best safety man I ever saw. He could run, pass, punt and block with the best of them. As a tackler he had few superiors anywhere.

He was absolutely great in defending against forward passes. I'll never forget what he told me one day when I was coaching him on how to play against forward passes.

"Coach," he said, "you just let me alone and not tell me anything and I'll break 'em up for you." I let him play pass defense his own way after that—and he was great.

Phoney was one of the few backs I ever saw who ran so relaxed that he could talk to his blockers while running at full speed and tell them whom to block. Once in a lifetime a coach gets a player so relaxed and poised.

I have seen some great backs in my time, but the boy from Fayetteville, Tenn., was the best I ever saw on an off-tackle play.

The list of things Phoney Smith could do well on a football field could run on and on. He was the greatest back I ever had anything to do with and that includes the last two college all-star teams.

One of Phoney's greatest feats on the football field was a 90-yard return of a kickoff for a touchdown against the University of Georgia's great 1927 team. I think he scored on every team we played in 1927.

In 1926 he place-kicked the field goal that defeated the University of Florida. He had a long string of consecutive points after touchdowns to his credit.

I also acted as head basketball coach while at Mercer and Phoney played running guard for me. He was a very good basketball player but not nearly so good on the court as on the football field. That is too much to expect of one man.

Phoney and I have kept in touch with each other ever since he finished at Mercer and I moved from Macon to Baton Rouge. The last letter I got from him—about a year ago—he was living in Savannah, Ga.

MACON AND LAGRANGE.

There always will be a very warm spot in my heart for the state of Georgia in general and for LaGrange and Macon in particular. I coached football and basketball at LaGrange High school in 1919 and 1920, right after the war.

I went back to Georgia in 1926 as head coach at Mercer, where I remained until I came here right after the close of the 1928 football season.

Major Blair, who still is at Mercer, was freshman coach while I was there. Sidney Johnson was our line coach. I coached the backs.

I still have a lot of good friends in Macon, a fine, friendly city. Herbert Smart, now mayor of Macon; Mr. Walker, city engineer, and Dr. W. G. Lee are among my close friends there.

ESSENTIAL QUALITIES.

Often I am asked what I consider to be the essential qualities of a great football team. First of all, the members of the team must have a fair amount of physical strength—not necessarily big, but not small.

They must be football fast, which means quick and active. They must be very intelligent in order to learn all that has to be learned about football now in the short length of time they have to practice.

The coaches and the team have got to combine a good, hard running attack with a good passing attack, a good kicking game and some deception.

Blocking and tackling, however, are still the major fundamentals of football.

I considered Louisiana State University's 1935 and 1936 Southeastern conference champions to be great football teams.

Another question frequently asked of me is who I consider

RULES CONFORM WITH THOSE OF OTHER COLLEGES

Army and Navy Complete Ceremony of 'Burying the Hatchet.'

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(P)—Army tonight settled, once and for all, the most famous collegiate controversy over athletic eligibility by changing its varsity rules for athletes to conform with the three-year standard in force at virtually every major college in the country.

The move completed the ceremony of "burying the hatchet" that caused the unfortunate break in football relations with Navy in 1928 and that resulted in the just-concluded breach between West Point and the midwest's Big Ten conference through 1935-37.

The new rule for army athletes makes every player eligible for just three years of varsity competition, whether that competition is at West Point or at a college in which an athlete may have played before entering "The Point." Heretofore, army has permitted a player three varsity years at West Point, regardless of his previous collegiate experience, a rule bitterly protested by navy and other schools.

MAJ. BY CONNOR. The superintendent of the military academy, Major General William D. Connor, made the announcement that finally ended the controversy.

"Hereafter, the eligibility rules which apply at Annapolis and the leading civilian colleges in the country," said General Connor's announcement, "will be applied in determining that eligibility of Cadets to play upon the athletic teams of the military academy."

Navy broke with army after their 1927 football game, demanding that the three-year eligibility rule be applied to West Point athletes. Although the two institutions played in 1930 and '31 for charity, the breach was not officially healed until 1932.

The new army eligibility standard follows closely on the action of the Big Ten conference in its recent convention in sanctioning renewal of relations with West Point. The midwestern group also broke off with Army, beginning with the 1935 season, largely over the eligibility rule.

CARL HINKLE CASE. The immediate question arising for gridiron observers was over the status of football stars of other colleges who have entered, or are planning to enter the academy. Two of the more prominent of these are Bill Guckeyson, Maryland's classy back who was a plebe, or freshman, at Army this year after completing his career with the Terrapins, and Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt's all-America center of 1937, who plans to enter Army.

Quaried over this situation, Army officials refused comment. "There is no information regarding the status of such players as yet," one officer at the academy explained.

When told of the Army's switch in athletic eligibility rules, Gar Davidson, retiring coach of the Academy, smiled and said: "Maybe, I'm getting out just in time."

RUSSELL CAGERS OPEN SATURDAY

Russell High will open its basketball schedule at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night on the Russell High court at East Point in a double header with Jonesboro High.

It will be the first of 15 games for the boys before the annual North Georgia Interscholastic conference tournament, which opens in March on the Fulton High court. Three lettermen, Kirkland, Waggoner and Davis, are the only available players to return from last year.

Coach John Lewis called the first practice immediately after the close of football.

Dodd, McCoy, Wilson, Brown, Goode and Parke are showing up unusually well and will be given a chance to show their ability in Saturday's opening game.

All members of the N. G. I. C. will play independent schedules and let the annual tournament decide the champion.

THE SCHEDULE. Dec. 11—Jonesboro at East Point. Jan. 7—Fayetteville at East Point. Jan. 11—North Fulton at North Fulton. Jan. 15—Jonesboro at Jonesboro. Jan. 18—Druid Hills at East Point. ## FORDHAM HURT IN FINAL DRILL FOR MIAMI TILT

Bulldogs Leave Tonight; 'Dooley' Matthews Runs Well in Practice.

By FELTON GORDON. ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 7.—Braving the cold weather, the University of Georgia football players went through their last scrimmage of the season at Sanford field this afternoon.

Jimmy Fordham, injured his left knee during the course of the tussle. He went up to the training room early. Upon examining it, Trainer C. W. Jones said the extent of the blow will be known Wednesday. It was the first time the knee has been hurt. In the scrimmage Fordham's knee came into contact with the head of one of his teammates.

George Self, Columbus boy who has played Red Devil center for the past two years, may see some action against Miami. He was being given a thorough workout on the varsity against today.

Meanwhile, Coach Harry Mehre hoped that injuries to key men Quinton Lumpkin and Buddy Miller will recover sufficiently to enable them to bear the burden.

Starring in the offensive scrimmage this afternoon, Dooley Matthews caught the eye of coaches. Matthews was running with unusual drive.

A squad of 32 players will leave here early Wednesday night by train. Captain Bill Hartman will accompany Miss Ruth Landers, who is "Miss Georgia," by plane tomorrow afternoon.

Miami Ready For Dedication.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7.—(P)—Miami's Orange Bowl will be dedicated Friday night before a crowd which will range from 18,000 to 25,000 when the Universities of Miami and Georgia clash in a football game.

Preparations have been going on for weeks to stage an elaborate show between halves and a colorful ceremony before the game. It is planned to have the President of the United States press a button which will illuminate the field at the start of the ceremony. State, national and city officials will take part in the program.

BURNETT BOWLS 369 SET TO WIN

H. F. "Felton" Burnett, of the Jellico Coal team, paced the Gate City and all other league competition with a fine set of 369 as he rolled game of 141, the high game of the league for the evening, 109 and 119, aiding his team to a three game win over the Atlantic Beer five.

"Scottie" Wason, of General Electric, topped the amateur league bowlers with a three-game count of 344 as his team won three from Firestone.

H. C. Fagan, of Kraft-Phenix, had the high single game of 136 for the loop.

J. A. Hurt, of the Bottles, had the high set of 332 and C. E. Boyd was credited with the high single game in the Coca Cola 14-team league.

The Gulf Oil 12-team league will resume play on the downtown alleys this afternoon. In this league's recent sweepstakes, in which the scores have just been checked, Bill Hargrove topped top honors with a 601 series for his five games. W. N. Goughe was runner-up with a 588 series and Christine Bishop topped the ladies' event with an even 500.

Jackets To Run At Sugar Bowl

Three Georgia Tech stars and one former Jacket ace, now of Oglethorpe University, will run in the Sugar Bowl track meet, January 2. It was announced yesterday by George Griffin, Jacket coach.

Bob Aldridge, Jack Pearce and Artie Small are the Tech runners who will compete in the two-mile run. Perrin Walker, former Jacket dash man and member of the A. A. U. team, will compete in the 100-yard dash. Walker now is a student at Oglethorpe.

The four have been working out for the last week or two under the direction of Griffin and will leave Atlanta December 29 to attend the S. U. Santa Clara football game on New Year's Day.

Bill Hartman To Wed On Miami Trip, Report

ATHENS, Dec. 7.—A report was current in Athens today that Captain Bill Hartman and Miss Ruth Landers, co-ed from Savannah, who will act as Georgia's sponsor in the Miami game, would be wed on the trip.

Miss Landers and Captain Hartman will take a plane from Atlanta tomorrow afternoon for Miami. They will be met at Jacksonville by Mrs. Landers, who will accompany them on to Miami.

As to any plans of marriage, Captain Hartman responded, "No, not just yet."

The trip for Hartman is a reward for Georgia tying Tech. Coach Mehre promised Hartman a plane trip either for a victory or tie.

A report also had it that the plane ride also was contingent on Hartman scoring, but Coach Mehre said that wasn't in the bargain.

S. E. C. SEEKS BAN ON BOXING MEETS

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. A demand that directors of athletics be given equal voting power with faculty representatives and renewal of the argument over participation of Southeastern conference teams in "bowl" games are the major questions slated for the annual meeting Friday at Jackson, Miss.

The directors will ask that they be admitted to all conference meetings, including executive sessions, and given equal voting authority. However, each member institution will be entitled to only one vote.

Los Angeles' annual telegraphic approval from members for its participation in the Orange Bowl game at Miami against Michigan State and presentation of its case to the executive committee on Thursday will let down the gate to further "bowl" discussions.

A year ago the conference voted to allow member teams to play only in the Sugar and Rose Bowls. The directors will seek approval of a proposal giving them supervision over the conference track meet and all other meets and tournaments, together with matters of ethics and principles of sportsmanship involved. In addition, they will ask that all receipts from meets and tournaments be deposited in a special tournament fund for disbursement only on their recommendation.

Another proposal to be offered says no person who has participated in a "golden glove," A. A. U. or any other tournament not sponsored by a college or university shall be eligible for intercollegiate boxing.

A uniform date for the opening of football practice for freshmen will be sought, with the proposal asking that September 8 be approved. At present freshmen are allowed to assemble on the day the member institution opens.

WARREN PLAYS CHICOPEE TEAM

Warren's southern amateur basketball champions will play the strong Chicopee Mills five at 8 o'clock tonight on the Chicopee court at Gainesville, Ga. It will be the fifth game of 45 to be played by Warren before tournament time.

A lineup of Virlyn Moore Jr. and Fred Bradford, forwards; Ed Copeland, center, and Hugh Luby and Ed Bellamy, guards, will start the game. That group has started every game and already Warren has won four straight.

Almon Williams, Jim Bagby Jr., pitchers with the Philadelphia Athletics, and Hazelton, in the New York-Penn league; Murray Witcher and Cherry Foster, also will be used in the game.

Chicopee has one of the strongest teams in Georgia, textile circles and last year played well in several tournaments. Practically a veterans team returned and will start against Warren tonight.

Civic League Fives Will Battle Tonight

Three fast games are scheduled to be played tonight in the Civic league on the "Y" court. The first game will begin at 7 p. m., Georgia Power meeting the Dental College.

Rybert Printing Company plays the league leading Gold Shield Laundries in the 8 p. m. game. Haas and Dodd meets Sylvan Hills in the final game at 9 p. m.

SCHEDULE. 7:00 P. M.—Georgia Power vs. Dental College. 8:00 P. M.—Rybert Printing Company vs. Gold Shield Laundries. 9:00 P. M.—Haas and Dodd vs. Sylvan Hills.

VIRGINIA CAPTAIN.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 7.—(P)—John Acree, of Lynchburg, 188-pound varsity guard for the past two seasons, was elected captain of the 1938 University of Virginia football team at the annual squad banquet tonight.

BEN JONES LOST TO TECH CAGERS FOR '38 SEASON

Star Forward Undergoes Appendectomy at Canton Home.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. The bad news is definitely here. Coach Roy Munderoff, of the Tech basketball team, said yesterday he had received word that Ben Jones, stellar forward from last year's twice-beaten team, had been operated on for appendicitis at his home in Canton and would not play on this year's squad.

The loss of Jones is a severe blow to the Jackets' Southeastern conference championship hopes for this year. He was one of the mainstays of the '37 five and it was hoped he would be able to play.

Yesterday, the squad went through a short shooting drill and then the varsity was put on offense with passing emphasized. The first team lined up with Johnston at center, Jordan and Ed Jones at forwards, and Sims and Anderson at guards. George Smith alternated at the guard positions.

Numerous substitutions were made during the session. Coach Munderoff not wishing to give the boys too much on the second day of practice.

Munderoff also announced the first real scrimmage of the season would be held on Friday.

Since five of his six returning lettermen played football, the squad is in excellent physical condition. Sims, Ed Jones, Jordan, Anderson and Smith are the grid-men on the cage team. Bo Johnston is here or routed to the Arcadia plant.

FIVE-MAN GROUP TO CHOOSE NEW BULLDOG COACH

Mehre Is Awarded Bonus; No Mention of Successor.

By JACK TROY. ATHENS, Dec. 7.—S. members of the athletic board of the University of Georgia judgment for more than 10 hours tonight upon the resignation of Coach Harry Mehre announced afterwards, the Secretary W. P. Payne, who is faculty chairman of athletics.

"The resignation of Coach Mehre is accepted with regrets, and in recognition of services and gratitude there bonus is voted him."

"The question of the selection of a head coach was referred to a committee composed of Prentiss Harmon Caldwell, W. O. Harold Hirsch, Watson W. and George C. Woodruff, committee to report recommendations to the board at the possible date."

"Dr. Charles H. Herty was an honorary life member of the board."

THREE ABSENTEES. Three members of the board were absent. They include S. V. Sanford, George Wood and Lon Dudley.

Dr. Payne was unwilling to amplify upon the bare announcement except to say that no candidates' names had been brought in the meeting.

From all one could gather, Coach Mehre's resignation was meant to stick in the place. He resigned last Wednesday and tonight said that a time did he reconsider his decision.

"Several members of the board approached me beforehand, asked me if I cared to reconsider. My answer was that I could reconsider under the existing conditions. I thought it was better both myself and Georgia to step out at this time."

"I resigned last Wednesday the only statement I care to make at this time is that I regret the good friends I have met Mehre said."

HARMONY PREVAILS. A member of the athletic board revealed that it was a very momentous session, which indicated that there was no choice to make other than to accept resignation of Coach Mehre.

EVEN AT 215° BELOW

'ZERONE' anti-freeze would protect!

SCIENTIFIC tests prove that "Zerone" anti-freeze can keep water from freezing solid even at 215° below zero. "Zerone" is so effective you need less of it for complete radiator protection. Tests also show that a mixture of "Zerone" and water passes off engine heat better than water alone, actually improving engine performance. Just follow directions on chart or can. What's more, in a clean cooling system, "Zerone" conditions the metal parts, prevents the formation of rust and corrosion. This is important, winter or summer, because cooling system rust and sludge affect power, can waste fuel and oil, and may lead to costly repairs. "Zerone" is made by Du Pont. At only $1 a gallon, 25c a quart, isn't "Zerone" a bargain worth trying? Why not go to your nearest "Zerone" dealer today, and have him give you your complete radiator protection for cold-weather driving? Drive in where you see the "Zerone" banner that tells you the dealer is "Glad to serve you!" Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

CAGO, Dec. 7.—(P)—The National circuit voted unani-less than an hour after this was taken the American decided to retain the faster which it has used many seasons and which the Nationals had for four years.

The new National league ball, officially known as the No. 4 with five strands in the seams of four, is expected to reduce a year of improved pitching and tighter games in the senior

Old Notre Dame Stars Coaching 'Bowl' Teams

Mentors of Four of Six Elevens Selected Learned Football at South Bend.

By JACK TROY.
ATHENS, Dec. 7.—While the momentous meeting of the University of Georgia athletic board was in progress, the thought occurred that Notre Dame-coached teams are not doing so badly with regard to the various bowl games.
Leading off with Alabama (the best pinch-hitter in the league), one discovers a Notre Dame coach in every bowl of note except the soup bowl.

Cox Was Last Man To Pin Nagurski

Rowdy Joe Cox, the Kansas City powerhouse, who wrestles Wally Dusek at the Atlanta theater Thursday night, was the last man to pin Bronko Nagurski, title claimant and former All-American fullback at Minnesota, who plays pro ball during the grid season with the Chicago Bears.
Cox spilled Bronko in 1936. He is also credited by many with chasing Everett Marshall out of the Midwest. Further support for those who contend that Cox is the unknown champion is the recent reported statement by Jack Dempsey to the effect that he believed Dynamite Joe can lick any guy in the world in a rough-and-tumble fight. Dempsey has refereed some of Cox's matches.

Cox, who behaved like an aroused wildcat last week, will have his hands full with the Dusek boy, who comes from a great family of grapplers.
Ed Meske, Ohio champion, and Wee Willie Davis collide in the semifinal. The opener pairs off Jim Coffield and Mike Strelch.
Tickets are on sale at Marshall & Reynolds.

GRAPPLERS GO HERE ON FRIDAY

The wrestling bouts scheduled at the Spring Street arena Monday night were called off until Friday due to the extreme cold weather.

Gentleman John Mauldin, the Atlanta wrestling referee, will tackle the rough Mexican, Raoul Lopez. This bout is sure to be a thriller from start to finish.
Mauldin refused to referee the Mexican's match here last week, stating he wanted to see him in action from the ringside and then issue a challenge. He stated he had solved Lopez' peculiar style of wrestling and would meet him at his own rough methods.

Son Almand has been paired against Jack Bloomfield in a scientific match on the program. Almand has not lost a match here since returning from Florida.
Mike Cassidy, Omaha terror, will again make his appearance in a local ring. He is matched against Young Gotch, formerly of Miami. It will be remembered by the fans here that Cassidy defeated the Jewish star, Bloomfield, the night he was married in the ring.

today jointly approved five additional matches for the game's hall of fame.
The new members were George Wright, early baseball organizer; Morgan Bulkley, organizer and first president of the National league; Ban Johnson, first president of the American league; John McGraw, late manager of the New York Giants; and Connie Mack, veteran Philadelphia Athletics manager.

When Mehre arrived at the coaches' office and spied visiting writers, he said, "Glad to see you, fellows. I didn't know the Miami game was this important."

NARRATIVES.
Another narrative concerned one of his own players during the Fordham game. Harry had become virtually exhausted trying to work in three tackles at the two positions during the game. He needed to rest one of them.
So he beckoned to this big reserve tackle and told him to get in there.

"Who, me?" responded the tackle, who had been sitting back and enjoying the game. "You don't mean me, coach," he continued, his eyes getting wider all the time.
"I thought I was just brought along for the trip."

When Mehre arrived at the coaches' office and spied visiting
writers, he said, "Glad to see you,
fellows. I didn't know the Miami
game was this important."

SEEMS RELIEVED.
After the official announcement of acceptance of his resignation, he was found with a couple of members of the coaching staff and a close friend at his home. He seemed relieved today that the pressure had been lifted. Typical of the man, he joked about the "cold country" toward which he may soon be heading.

"Yes, 14 years is a long time to spend at any one place," he admitted. "But it happened to recall what the late Johnny Dobbs, manager of the Crackers, once said:
"It doesn't pay to stay too long in one place; people may become tired of you, so keep moving."

Commenting on the abolition of the center jump this year, Coach Mundorf said he was neither for nor against it, but was willing to give it a try.

The new rule will affect the game in that all center jumps will be abolished except at the beginning of each half and in case of an extra-time period.
The ball will be given to the opposing team out of bounds under the basket when a field or foul goal is made. The rule was designed to nullify somewhat the advantage of an extremely tall center.

The Tech cage schedule is not yet completed and will not be for some time. Mundorf said the delay was due to the possible postseason football game with California and the building of the new gymnasium.

FIVE-MAN GROUP TO CHOOSE NEW BULLDOG COACH

Mehre Is Awarded Bonus; No Mention Made of Successor.

in ten years as head coach completed a record of 58 victories, 34 losses and six ties.

Mehre has spent 14 years in all at Georgia. He was line coach for four years under Kid Woodruff before becoming head coach, in 1922.

One more game remains before he bows out. Coach Mehre leaves tomorrow night with the Georgia team to play the University of Miami in a game dedicating the new Orange Bowl Friday night.

Alumni opposition from certain quarters naturally prompted the resignation of Coach Mehre, who admittedly has received several offers from other well-known schools.

MAY ENTER LAW.
One rumor had it that he might step out of the coaching game of law and enter a practice of law, but it could not be verified.

Not only names of the schools which have offered him head coaching jobs be verified. It is known that Loyola of the South, at New Orleans, offered him a very attractive proposition last year. There has been some talk that Mississippi State was interested in securing his services.

Coach Mehre was noncommittal when questioned as to his future plans.

"I'd rather not say, and besides we have one more game. I hope we make a good showing at Miami," he responded.

Applications for the job of head coach at Georgia have flooded Dr.
Payne's office since Coach Mehre announced his resignation last Wednesday at the annual football banquet at the Georgian hotel here. It was both announced and accepted at the same place here.

NAMED BY RUMORS.
There have been rumors of Dell Morgan, Auburn; Bobby Doe, Georgia Tech; Rex Enright, Georgia, and many others outside the Southeastern conference, as coaches whose names are favorable to alumni.

But there has been no word from the athletic board as to a successor.

That part is covered in the selection of a committee of five to report recommendations to the board at the earliest possible date.

There is much to be said of Harvey Mehre as he prepares to leave "his second alma mater" following with him an enviable intersectional record. His teams won five straight over Yale and three out of four over N. Y. U.

The players of this team did not want him to leave. They petitioned him to reconsider. All 49 of them affixed their signatures to the petition.

NOT EASY.
Coach Mehre gave this careful thought in rendering his final decision. It is not easy to "chuck it all" after 14 years, but figuring it was to the best interests of all concerned, he did not feel in a position to reconsider.

Georgia was in the market, so to speak, for a new head coach.
Harry Mehre will leave with the best wishes of those who were privileged to call him friend.

Just before tonight's athletic board meeting, Coach Mehre and the Georgia team attended a college night rally at the local theater.

CRIMSON TIDE RANKED FIRST OVER 5 YEARS

Gophers Second, L.S.U.
4th, Duke 7th, Bulldogs
38th From '33-37.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(P)—Figured solely on the won and lost records, the nation's No. 1 college football team for the last five-year stretch is Alabama's Crimson Tide, prospective rival for California in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

An Associated Press survey of the records for the seasons of 1933-37, inclusive, today revealed Frank Thomas' Tusculooosa Terrors at the head of the parade of more than 100 of the country's leading college outfits.

During that time, Alabama has piled up 40 victories against only three defeats and three ties with ties disregarded. The Tide, in fact, has gone undefeated through the last two seasons—18 games without a setback and with only one tie.

Impressive as is this record,
Alabama maintains only a slight edge over its two closest rivals, Minnesota's Gophers and the Pitt
Panthers. Beaten twice this year, Minnesota nevertheless has lost only three games in five years while winning 33 and tying four for a percentage of .917. Pitt, the nation's No. 1 array for 1937, has won 40 games, lost four and tied four (including three consecutive draws with Fordham) for a .909 average.

Should Alabama bow to California on New Year's Day the Tide automatically will drop back into a tie with Pitt for second place in the five-year standings while Minnesota moves into the pace-setting role.

Here's how the leaders rank during the past five years (ties disregarded in percentages):

TEAM.	W.	L.	Td.	Pct.	Pts. For Agst.
1. Alabama	33	3	4	.917	188

Alliance Basketeers Open Play Sunday

The Jacobsens and Cordozians will open the Jewish Educational Alliance basketball league Sunday at 2:45 p. m. Both teams are members of the new girls' league that has been formed for the first time.

The second game will be the feature one of the day, for the two rivals, A. B. C. and S. P. C., will be back to renew hostilities. The championship of the first half will be at stake.

The last game of the day will find Z. I. P., a newcomer to the junior league, tangling with S. O.
Z. The S. O. Z. team finished last year's season by placing third in the city midweek tournament, and will be back to resume their winning ways.

SCHEDULE.
Jacobsens vs. Cordozians, 2:45 p. m.
S. P. C. vs. Z. I. P., 4:30 p. m.
Z. I. P. vs. S. O. Z., 4:30 p. m.

TO LEAD VOLS.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 7.— Bowden Wyatt, 180-pounder, was elected captain of the 1938 University of Tennessee football team tonight at the annual banquet.

University of Georgia and of the athletic board.
He is one of the youngest college executives in the United States.
Personable and affable, he is very popular among students. He is unmarried.

Although he weilds the gavel with ease at athletic meetings and university sessions he has never served on a jury.

AS CHIEF OF HOUSING
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)— Nathan Straus, of New York, approved by a senate labor committee today to head the United States Housing Authority, announced latter that he hoped to earmark funders for some projects tomorrow.

Straus also tentatively settled an important question: "Are bathrooms to be considered rooms in the slum clearance and low-rent housing program?"

He held a conference of municipal housing officials that bathrooms would not count as rooms.

Officials To Meet
At Y.M.C.A. Tonight
A meeting of the Georgia Basketball Officials' Association will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Y. M. C. A. The meeting was postponed from Monday night, due to the severe cold.

Every basketball official in this section is requested to be present as it will be one of the most important meetings of the year.

PRESIDENT REPORTS THIS LAW IMPROVED

Chief Executive Parries Reporters' Queries of News of Day.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(P)—
President Roosevelt, in good humor, told reporters today his all-ing jaw was all right, and then proceeded to demonstrate that his teeth trouble had not impaired his skill at parrying questions.

"The business recession is getting worse," one reporter said.
"What are you planning to do about it?"

The President replied that the new statement was an assumption and that, at any rate, he did not wish to tie his hands by announcing a program. The reporter asked if business conditions were not growing worse, and Mr.
Roosevelt laughingly said people were arguing the question both ways.

Another wanted to know if the government's policy of buying domestic silver at 77.57 cents an ounce would be continued beyond the end of the year by the assumption of a proclamation. Mr. Roosevelt told him he was many days ahead of time, but that there might be some news about the 24th or 25th.

"What about the farm bill?" he was asked.
Roosevelt grinned, looked around and noted the presence of Mark Sullivan, columnist, who has been severely critical of the administration's agricultural policy, especially what he charges are coercive features of it.

The President said he noticed that Sullivan had not yet gone to fall.

"No," said Sullivan, "I'm still able to be one of your friendly auditors."

While the crowd laughed, Mr.
Roosevelt told him that if he should be sent to jail there would be a pardon all ready for him.

DU PONT PROPOSES THREE MILLION JOBS

Favors 25 Billion Spending Drive by Industry; 'We Can Do It,' He Says.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(P)— Creation of 3,000,000 new jobs, investment of $25,000,000,000 capital in expansion of industry and a new recovery program over the next two to 10 years were proposed to the nation's manufacturers today by Lamont du Pont, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

He spoke at the National Association of Manufacturers annual convention. Such a program was "staggering in its size and complexity," du Pont said, but "neither hopeless nor impossible," he added.

Teamwork Called For.
Earlier the 600 executives of American business had heard William B. Warner, president of the association, plead for teamwork between labor and capital, management and government, and appeal to the latter for evidence of a "changed attitude toward business."

"The bulk of responsibility for future social betterment," du Pont asserted, "should be placed on industry's shoulders. And industry accepts the responsibility, even more, we welcome the responsibility with full confidence in our own and our nation's capacity to discharge it successfully. All that we ask is the same fair opportunity that we believe should be given the humblest citizen."

New jobs, new wealth and agricultural prosperity could be produced only through planned research, planned development and planned expansion of plant, sales and administrative facilities. That meant, he said, "planned expenditure of capital months and years in advance of any penny of return."

HIGH COURT HEARS 4-HOUR ARGUMENT ON PUBLIC POWER

Duke and Alabama Firms Contend Loans and Grants Illegal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The supreme court listened four hours today to clashing arguments on two test cases to determine whether the government can make loans and grants constitutionally for publicly owned electric plants.

It heard W. S. O'B. Robinson Jr., attorney for the Duke Power Company, and William H. Thompson, counsel for the Alabama Power Company, contend such activity interfered with state rights and destroyed private property.

EX-ARMY ENGINEER OPPOSES TVA SYSTEM

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—William Kelly, former colonel of United States army engineers, testified before a three-judge federal court today that dams on the Tennessee river and its tributaries are "neither practical nor effective" for control of floods on the lower Mississippi river.

He was a witness for 18 private utilities seeking to invalidate the Tennessee Valley Authority power program.

BERRY'S PARTNER TESTIFIES ON CLAIMS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A business associate of Senator George L. Berry testified today he and the senator had no idea of filing damage claims against the Tennessee Valley Authority when they purchased min-

Antiseptic Made From Lowly Weed

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 7.—(AP) Dr. J. B. Burt, chairman of the Nebraska University pharmacy department, announced today the discovery of a new antiseptic derived from a weed so lowly western Nebraska farmers do not deign to name it.

The new drug is chlormercuri carvacrol, which Dr. Burt said gives great promise as a possible treatment for such skin diseases as athlete's foot, ring worm, psoriasis and impetigo.

He explained the antiseptic is made from the mint-like weed, monarda pectinata. He estimated the weed would be worth $38.80 per ton at the market price for carvacrol if the new antiseptic becomes an accepted remedy.

eral leases in the Norris dam basin in 1932.

C. A. Harris declared the leases were made in good faith before they knew the land would be flooded.

TVA counsel questioned Berry yesterday concerning two documents that gave him the power of attorney to seek damages for the land owners.

Harris denied today Berry had any connection with the papers and said he executed them himself without Berry's knowledge.

ATLANTA INDICTED ON FORGERY COUNT

24 Others Ordered Held by Grand Jury.

C. M. Aiken, 25, was indicted on 10 counts of forgery yesterday as the Fulton grand jury brought in true bills against 25 persons.

Aiken was charged with forging and passing, between October 20 and November 18, four checks in the name of the Johnson Fluker Company and one check in the name of O. F. Sealey. The five checks totaled $34.50.

Clarence Butts, 34-year-old negro, was indicted for murder, nine persons were indicted for burglary, four for robbery and 10 for other offenses.

She's Among Her Souvenirs (Of Hollywood)

Constitution Staff Photo—Wilson

Surrounded by souvenirs of her thrilling trip to Hollywood, Elizabeth Geisz, nine-year-old Atlanta girl, yesterday returned to school after a two-and-one-half-week trip. Her autograph book contains names of film stars, while the doll on the right was given her by Jane Withers. Elizabeth won the trip in a contest sponsored by The Constitution.

Movie Contest Winner Recounts Wonders Viewed in Film Capital

Atlanta Girl Met Jane Withers, Talked With Dixie Dunbar, Shook Hands With Joan Blondell, Smiled at Bobby Breen on Thrilling Visit.

By MAXINE LAND.

Questions flew thick and fast yesterday at little Elizabeth Geisz, 9-year-old Atlanta schoolgirl, who just returned from a thrilling trip to Hollywood.

As the winner in a movie contest sponsored by The Constitution, Elizabeth caught glimpses of the screen capital that most visitors are not privileged to see.

She met Jane Withers, talked with Dixie Dunbar, shook hands with Joan Blondell, smiled at Bobby Breen, and watched Leo Carillo ride a spirited horse down Hollywood boulevard.

Classmates Gather.

No wonder, then, that yesterday, her first day back at her studies at Sacred Heart school, classmates gathered around to hear all about the trip.

Elizabeth told them, mainly about her long-anticipated meeting with another Atlanta girl, the now-famous child actress, Jane Withers.

"She was just exactly like I thought she would be," said Elizabeth to her eager audience. "But much sweeter than I had imagined. We had a long talk. She told me she hoped I'd stay in Hollywood."

"And when I left, she gave me this doll."

The cherished souvenir was handed around to the admiring listeners, as "ahs" and "ohs" were heard, and Elizabeth chatted on.

Didn't See Charlie.

"I didn't see Charlie Chaplin in person. But I saw his tennis court. And I rode by Harold Lloyd's house and saw his dog," she said.

But the biggest thrills were the airplane rides. Elizabeth flew from Dallas to Hollywood and back on a de luxe American Airways sleeper. Fast Delta Airlines planes flew her from Atlanta to Dallas and back.

"It was grand," she said, in describing this phase of her experiences. "It was almost like a dream. The planes went so smooth I felt just like I was at home in my own bed. Maybe that's why I slept so much."

"The stewardess on the plane was very nice to me. She brought me magazines to read, and asked how I was feeling."

Another memory of the planes, she went on, was having dinner served "on a cute little table."

Added Adventure.

Then there was the added adventure of meeting famous fellow passengers. On the westward trip were two Japanese journalists, Shingoro Takashi and Mrs. Waka Yamada. Elizabeth talked with both of them.

Among other souvenirs Elizabeth brought back were an autograph book filled with names of famous screen luminaries, and a doll given her by Mrs. C. A. Parker, wife of the manager of the hotel where Elizabeth and her mother, Mrs. Hans Geisz, stayed while in Hollywood.

Now, Elizabeth says she is ready for school work. But, she added, "I'll never forget that trip."

BAPTISTS TO HOLD '38 MEETING HERE

Convention Will Bring More Than 800 Delegates From All Georgia.

Atlanta was chosen yesterday for the 1938 Georgia Baptist convention, following a meeting of the executive board in the First Baptist church.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church and president of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Association, extended the invitation.

The convention will bring more than 800 delegates to this city. It will be held in November at the First Baptist church.

The following members of the executive board were re-elected at the meeting yesterday: Dr. J. E. Sammons, of Macon, president; Dr. W. Raleigh White, of Albany, vice president; the Rev. Spencer E. King, of Blakely, recording secretary, and Dr. James W. Merritt, of Atlanta, executive secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Aquila Chamlee, of Forsyth, is president of the convention. A program for 1938 was adopted and the budget approved.

Cobbler Gets Lottery 'Bug' And Chain Gang

The old proverb that a cobbler should stick to his last was indorsed in Fulton criminal court yesterday as Judge Jesse M. Wood sentenced a 66-year-old negro shoemaker to four months on the chain gang for "writing the bug."

The offender, E. J. Goodwill, was sentenced in accordance with a recently announced policy of straight chain gang sentences for all lottery operators caught since the recent grand jury probe.

Goodwill pleaded not guilty to charges arising out of his arrest Wednesday in his shop on Humphries street with a book of lottery tickets in his possession. He was a first offender.

Another negro, Willie H. Kirkland, 22, was lucky enough to be arrested for lottery before the grand jury investigation, and was fined $50 or sentenced to six months after he had pleaded guilty. He paid. Two negro women, Lucille Patterson and Rosalie Hayes, were released on lottery charges for lack of sufficient evidence.

GUM PIONEER DIES.

DAYTON, Ohio, Dec. 7.—(AP)—William H. Harkness, 76, a founder with William Wrigley of the chewing gum company and for many years associated with him in the sales department, died today after a long illness.

VIRGINIAN ELECTED CHURCH PAPER AIDE

Mrs. H. J. Williams, of Richmond, Named Assistant Editor of 'Survey.'

The election of Mrs. H. J. Williams, of Richmond, Va., as assistant editor of "The Presbyterian Survey," official organ of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Williams, who has been managing editor of the publication, was elected at an adjourned session of the board of editors yesterday afternoon in the Henry Grady hotel. Her new post, for a one-year term, begins April 1.

Dr. John L. Fairly was named chairman of the board of editors and de facto editor-in-chief of the Survey. He has been serving as editor of the magazine, along with other duties as editor-in-chief of all church publications.

Dr. B. K. Tenney was named vice chairman of the board of editors. He also is chairman of the promotion committee, which recommended changes in the methods of supervising publishing of the organ.

The change, which made necessary the staff reorganization, transferred editorial responsibility from the executive committee of religious education and publications to the newly created board of editors.

J. C. HARRISON BURIAL AT POWDER SPRINGS

Last rites for J. C. Harrison, 65, former member of the city council and aldermanic board of the old third ward, who died Sunday night at his home, 45 Peachtree Hills avenue, were held yesterday morning in the Central Baptist church. The Rev. M. Cooper officiated and burial was in Powder Springs cemetery.

Active in the work of the Central Baptist church and Sunday school, Mr. Harrison occupied a seat in the city council several terms. He was chairman of the board for the building of the Battle Hill sanatorium, erected while he was in council.

Plans of FHA for Small Homes Cited To Assure Maximum Value

Authorities Tell How Standard Materials and Building Practices Provide Greater Economies in Building Houses Under $6,000 Class.

By W. T. PEACOCK.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—How can the man who can afford only a house of the less-than-$6,000 class be sure of getting the most possible out of his spending? Government housing authorities say by adopting plans of the Federal Housing Administration for small homes, or by seeing that his architect or builder follows the basic principles laid down in the FHA plans.

"Every square foot of space, every odd corner, every length of pipe, every pipe connection, every foot of lumber that can be eliminated must be saved," says the FHA.

"At the same time, these economies and efficiencies may not be obtained at the sacrifice of substantial construction or of minimum standards for convenience and comfort."

One basic principle is that the nearer a house approaches a cube, or square base, the lower the relative cost in proportion to the interior space provided.

"While it may be necessary to reduce the basic house to a box," says the FHA, "it must nevertheless be a well proportioned box with its materials and openings treated with imagination and skill."

Other Points.

These are other points:

1. Interior framing and partitioning should be designed to eliminate all possible corners.
2. Standard lengths of lumber should be used throughout except where cutting is required to form gables and frame around stairs and chimneys.
3. Joists should be carried between outside bearing walls and supported by bearing timbers to reduce labor of cutting and to give greater flexibility in interior planning.
4. Standard or stock items of millwork should be used. Specialty-designed mantels, windows, baseboards, etc., cost more.
5. Plumbing lines should be concentrated, kitchen and bath being back to back in one-floor plans and above one another in two-story plans.
6. Heating layouts should be designed for short runs of piping or duct work.

Aside from these practical considerations, there is a large field of intangible value, based on the home's market value.

The man lending money on a house must consider what it might bring if it were sold. Thus the appearance must be considered as well as the practicability.

Conventional Favored.

Housing authorities say that, as a general rule, it is wiser to build something "conventional." A design that it knows to be acceptable in the community probably will be more "marketable" if it must be sold.

Thus some architects contend it is better to have a basement, because many people expect a house to have a basement. Others argue for a ground floor heating room, contending this is a matter of education.

The ground floor room is the cheaper, many experts say, particularly in moderate climates where it is not necessary to dig deep to carry the foundation low the frost line.

There are those, too, who see the view that the "billionaire" will be most asked in the future. They see the increase in building of "international" homes in the midwest since shown at the Chicago Fair. The 1939 New York City, may bring a sharp change in this type.

These are opinions.

The prospective builder, ing his money and can choose.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED FOR MRS. J. S. SEWELL.

Last rites for Mrs. J. S. Sewell, 75, widow of J. S. Sewell, the founders of the We Christian church, who died yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. G. W. Singer, 1483 wood avenue, S. W., were yesterday afternoon at Hill.

Ministers officiating were Rev. Robert W. Burns, Rev. M. G. Turvin, Burial West View cemetery.

EVEN THE PRICE TAGS SAY "Better buy Buick!"

LOOK the whole length of Motor Car Row, and you won't find a car anywhere that offers you what this stunning new Buick does.

No other car, for instance, has its DYNAFLEX engine, squeezing more useful power out of every drop of gasoline you burn.

No other car has TORQUE-FREE SPRING — or can match the smoothness-with-safety this new coil-spring rear suspension provides.

No other car combines such features as Silent Zone Body Mounting, Valve-in-Head efficiency, Torque-Tube Drive, Tiptoe Hydraulic Brakes, Knee-Action comfort and safety—in a package so big and handsome.

All that plainly says "Better buy Buick!" But just by way of completing the story, we'd like to point out this:

The Buick SPECIAL is the lowest-priced straight-eight of its size on the market. At least two sixes carry higher list prices, and others are priced so close that a dollar or two a week covers the difference.

Take the stunning four-door sedan shown here. It's sixteen and a half feet long, has 107 horsepower under its hood, and it's yours complete with standard accessories for only $1022, delivered at Flint, Michigan.

We don't think you'll find its match anywhere on Motor Car Row. We're sure you won't for the money!

This BUICK SPECIAL 5-passenger, 4-door streamline sport sedan, complete with standard accessories, $1022 delivered at Flint, Mich.

Other models: Buick SPECIAL business coupe, $945; CENTURY 4-door touring sedan, $1297. Special accessories, freight and local taxes, if any, extra on all models.

TRAVEL BY BUS

AT 1/4 THE COST OF DRIVING

IT costs less to travel in one of Greyhound's luxurious new buses than it does to drive your own automobile. It's a lot less trouble, too, with convenient schedules, frequent departures and depots right in the heart of town—no parking worries, no garages, no driving when you're tired and no wear on your nerves. Let the folks enjoy the family car while you're gone and save as much as 75 per cent of your transportation costs. Compare Greyhound's low fares and greater convenience when you plan your next trip.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: For three years I haven't had a date with any boy but the one and he is so jealous and suspicious that I don't know what to do. We had been engaged for some time when one night he came in and said he wanted to break our engagement. I didn't know what on earth was the matter but he finally asked me if I hadn't been out with a certain man the night before. I hadn't left the house all evening but he wasn't convinced. He said he was leaving then and I would not see him again so I told him if he wouldn't behave this way I would marry him secretly the next night and we wouldn't tell it until Christmas. We were married and he has been worse than ever. My sister's boy friend gave her a photograph and when he saw it, he accused me of putting over a date or two on him, when such a thing has never occurred to me. If this keeps up I will hate him before our marriage is ever announced. I will feel much better if you will tell me how to cure his jealousy.

M. E.

Answer: What a pity you did not confide in your parents before you took that irrevocable step! What a pity you didn't give somebody an opportunity to warn you that marriage had never altered a person's nature, nor cured congenital diseases such as jealousy and suspicion. The leopard can't change his spots and a male can't change them for him. That young husband of yours will always give you trouble on the score of his jealousy and there's no use to kid yourself about curing him.

Yet there are a lot of women happily married to jealous men and their chief delight is to toot about the great affection their husbands have for them. They are so convincing they actually make other women envy them. One will tell you how her husband went up in the air when he saw her in interested conversation with another man. Another will tell you that her husband loves her so much that he isn't willing for her to be alone with anything that wears pants. And I have heard one laughingly remark that her husband was jealous of the time she spent with her family and women friends, all of which cramped her style but didn't spoil her fun. These wives have found the compensations for the inconveniences and embarrassments that follow in the wake of the mental maladies with which their mates are afflicted. That's what you will have to do.

Remember, your husband is not getting any pleasure out of the scenes he makes. He's suffering. He's afraid of being crowded out, afraid of losing you, afraid of being humiliated and his natural impulse is to make you suffer, too. Pretty bad but that's the way with a jealous man. He's sort of cracked. Have a heart and handle him tenderly.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I adore my parents but I have problems all right with them. Father has a fine position, makes a good living, but he drinks terribly—always at night. This puts mother into an

To Get the Best Cough Remedy, Mix it at Home

Quicker Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This famous recipe is used by millions of housewives, because there is no other way to obtain such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs that start from colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any drugstore, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed. Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough remedy, far superior to anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed at the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving you double-quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Incidentally, Rathbone's college graduate son is now visiting his parents, and trying to decide on a career. And he is going to work three months as an actor, three months as an assistant director, three months assisting a cameraman and three months in the cutting room. After this thorough picture course, he will decide which branch of it he prefers. He is lucky in his choice of fathers.

Ginger Rogers wants her next film to be in technicolor. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. has shot several tinted stills of Ginger, which she prefers to her "black and white" self. . . . Sonja Henie gets a percentage on her pictures—which are the biggest moneymakers of all the Hollywood products. This explains why Sonja is insured for a total of $3,000,000.

A quote from Barbara Stanwyck: "I am not going to marry Robert Taylor." Well, we shall soon see. . . . If you are interested, Shirley Temple has four upper and four lower of her permanent teeth. Several mothers here have told me this is quite unusual for a child of 8. Is it?

Donald Chipmunk, who has worked with Garbo in several pictures, has this to say of Hollywood's famous recluse. Her genuine shyness was intensified because of her inability to speak the American language when she first came here. And she has never quite mastered it for everyday use. Crisp told me that, when Garbo is really ready to leave for that castle in Sweden, she will go very quietly and without any public announcement of retirement. The only reason she is still continuing to work is to recoup the $400,000 lost when a certain Beverly Hills bank closed its doors a few years ago. Garbo has always kept her money in liquid cash, so that she can pick it up at once, if she wants to. (And if it is still there!)

Robert Benchley visited an old-time actor in a hospital recovering from a suicide attempt via an overdose of sleeping pills. "Why did you do it?" Bob asked. "I couldn't sleep," replied the actor. "I've got just the thing for you," said Bob, producing the very same pills that had almost ended the other's life.

KEEP UP WITH THE NEW DANCES BY LEARNING STEPS AT HOME

"Oh, how I'd love to be able to dance like that, you say. You're crazy about the way Jerry and Grace weave through the languorous, lilting tango. Well, why don't you dance like that? You can quickly teach yourself at home to do all the popular steps. With simple diagrams to guide you—showing you how to count and place your feet—you can rate with the best on the floor. Look at the diagrams showing—the cross step. Suppose you're doing the girl's part. On Count 1, step to the right. 2. Cross left foot over right. AND. Step to right with right foot. 3. Close with the left.

To get the real tango rhythm, take the steps quickly. Put your feet down firmly as in walking. Then pause after Count 3, a dreamy fraction of a second, before you swing into a walk or the Side-Close Step. Just as easy to learn the new steps in the waltz, fox-trot and rumba. And as for you girls who have trouble following your partners, time your steps so you take them an instant after the man does. Don't bend back from the waist. If you want to avoid bumping knees, dance slightly to your partner's right, look over his right shoulder. In our 40-page booklet, "Social Dancing—Self-Taught," a well-known dancing teacher explains 26 popular steps in the waltz, fox-trot, rumba and tango—so clearly that you can master them in a few evenings' practice and be a hit at your next big dance.

Send 15c for our booklet, SOCIAL DANCING SELF-TAUGHT, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Luncheon Planned.

Inexpensive Gifts That Are Sure To Please

By LILLIAN MAE.

It is a proposition, isn't it, to know just what to buy for Sister Susie, Aunt Kate and the best boy friend? That's just where I come in. In my tours of the shops I see the most appropriate things, at prices which will suit the pocketbook of each and everyone.

Today I'm bringing you suggestions of varied articles which may be purchased for $3 or less. First, there is a package recommended for those who can work themselves up to a regular mania when it comes to selecting gifts for the difficult sex. Three triangular flacons with pinch-center feature contain an after-shave lotion, an eau de cologne and a scalp stimulant. Contained compactly in a band-box that smacks of a "gay dog" life, this package which sells for slightly less than $2, is the subtlest form of flattery, sure to please either the young man or the one not-so-young.

There are make-up kits and make-up kits, but I do want to call to your attention a very complete one, the like of which I have not seen previously in value and design. It is a smart black and yellow box with a drawer containing seven products of a well-known manufacturer, with a separate compartment for a comb, nail file, etc. The top lifts up revealing a good-sized mirror. I predict immediate popularity for the person who gives to a business woman, a college girl or a week ender, this useful, clever kit containing face powder, cleansing cream, foundation cream, skin freshener, eye bath, lipstick and rouge. The price is only $2.

There is a strongly concentrated bath oil—and who doesn't just love these bath luxuries which aren't really luxuries after all, because they do so much for one physically and mentally? This particular item is contained in a not-so-large bottle, and priced at $3, but it isn't expensive at that, for only a very few drops in the bath water will uplift and perfume the bath, and cause the house to be pervaded with that pleasant eau de cologne fragrance.

The last suggestion for today—though I'll bring you others in subsequent articles—is a very lovely oval-shaped box in colorful design, containing in regular sized portions, face powder, compact rouge and lipstick, all in the fine quality for which their manufacturer is noted. This is priced at only $2.85.

Phone me at my office in The Constitution building for the names of these items and the Atlanta stores at which they may be purchased. If you do not live in Atlanta, write, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

robert! Write today for the winter Lillian Mae pattern book. In it you'll find countless styles that will carry you with flying colors through the rest of the winter and well into spring. Smart dresses for women and misses whether they are slim or stout . . . and gay little clothes for children from 2 years up. Don't miss this splendid collection! Price of book 15 cents.

Send your order to Lillian Mae Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Robert Graham To Be Honor Guest.
Among the interesting social affairs planned in compliment to Mrs. Robert C. Graham, a popular recent bride, is the tea at which Mrs. E. B. Irwin and Mrs. Duncan Haigler will be hostesses on Friday at their home on Myrtle street. The tea will assemble a group of 20 friends of the honor guest.

Mrs. Graham was before her marriage last month Miss Louise Dent, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heard W. Dent. Since their return from a Florida wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Graham have taken possession of their apartment on Roxboro road, and are attractive additions to the married contingent of society.

Amaryllis Club.
Amaryllis Garden Club met recently with Mrs. Fred Kerlin with 12 members and one visitor present. Mrs. W. P. Irvine, president, presided. Mrs. Fred Carter was welcomed as a new member. Prizes were won by Mrs. L. A. Blackmon and Mrs. John Faith Jr. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. E. C. Lowry.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party held with Mrs. G. P. Duncan and Mrs. W. T. Jones as co-hostess at 132 Stovall street December 16.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

LEG CONTOUR TELLS WHETHER OR NOT YOU EXERCISE.
Beautiful legs are rare even among beauties. It's heresy to say it, but Marlene Dietrich, the No. 1 glamour girl of the screen, does not have the perfect legs with which she is credited.

To me this leg legend seems relatively unimportant in the sure of Dietrich's glamour. Artists rave over the delicately molded bony structure of her face, and one flutter of her long eyelashes is enough to start the London war all over again. This movie siren has beautiful legs.

To the eye trained to detect flaws in musculature, these famous legs lack muscle tones and symmetry. A slight sag along the calf contour indicates that Miss Dietrich does not keep her figure the hard way.

Leg contours are the barometer of your exercise program. They are the final test of the efficiency of your daily dozen. Unless you participate in active sports or practice carefully selected exercises, the leg muscles are not put into use. The resultant lack of muscle tone is marked by a lack of symmetry and is to be found in fat legs or thin legs. Regardless of weight, the poorest leg development is to be found among women who spend most of their time indoors.

As a rule, dancers, swimmers and skaters have beautiful legs. In some of these professions the legs are overdeveloped from constant exercise of a certain type. In recent years, however, it has been discovered that this tendency to overdevelopment can be counteracted by exercise of another type. Ballet dancers turn to tap dancing to keep their leg muscles long and smooth. On the same principle, the woman who wants to develop her legs will perform contracting exercises on the toes, following this exercise with stretching and relaxing. To slim down thick calves, the exercise should be of the type to stretch the muscles. Such exercises are performed with the heel pointed, toes pulled toward the instep.

Climbing is excellent leg exercise.

Sonja Henie, the ice queen, has legs that are as firm and compact as those of an active child. She recently insured them for an amount that would pay her $5,000 a week—no less—in the event of injury! In spite of the fact that this young star has skated all her life, there is no bunniness in the muscles of the calf. The slight overdevelopment through the thighs is caused by the constant use of these muscles. It is these powerful thigh muscles which swing the legs back and forward in the long, sweeping movements of a skater's routine. The average woman's thighs are underdeveloped and she needs exercises which move the legs at the hips in side circles, swinging the legs from the hips.

The Radio City Rockettes have as lovely legs as you could find anywhere. Their long hours of dancing has caused no trouble with the calf muscles because they know how to offset one exercise with another. Frequently after they have been contracting the leg muscles they will stretch the leg muscles by a few high kicking exercises.

Standing and walking, which

MY DAY

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK CITY, Monday.—I rode both morning and afternoon yesterday and tried out a new horse. I am so accustomed to the gait, size and behavior, that any new horse seems quite impossible. This one seemed so big I thought I never get on him. Also, he started his trot with three particularly stiff strides. By the afternoon, after riding him through woods three times, I liked his trot and decided he was as gentle as any horse ever seen. I feel sure that when I am in Park I am going to enjoy him, and what is more important, everyone else who will be safe with him. We have named "Brownie" and adopted him into the family.

Not long ago, I asked my aunt, Mrs. Gray, if my old cutter was still in the stable. She told me it was and offered me have it. Now I am sending for it to out with "Brownie" this winter on the through the woods where the snow will be longest.

I am told a particularly long and hard winter is predicted for the North of trying to keep the road open to the main highway, I rather hope that on the occasions when I can get away from Washington, there will be snow so we can try out all the winter sports.

Dismal rain greeted us this morning. I ran around with my in my hand, giving last instructions for work to be done, a damper and damper. Finally, Miss Cook, Mrs. Scheider and I boarded the train for New York city.

I have just visited one of the Fifth Avenue shops where Cook is proudly exhibiting pewter made in our Val-Kill shop. I have it well arranged and it looks very nice. I hope, not on Miss Cook's sake and mine, but for the sake of the young men who are now our partners, that we will have some good Christmas sales.

Yesterday afternoon, I stopped in to see a man who is now in Val-Kill furniture on his own at Hyde Park, and was delighted to find that he had more work than he could handle.

My very last Christmas shopping must be done this afternoon. At 5 o'clock I am going to have tea with my aunt, Mrs. St. Mortimer, who just came back from England. I always love to see her, and my boys insist that my two Hall aunts have quite much "go" as my Roosevelt!

Aside from seeing her, the surroundings in which you drink are rather unique and delightful. I know of no house with perfect early Italian paintings, tapestries and various kinds of decorations, including some really beautiful stained glass.

The President returns this evening, so I will be on my way to Washington at midnight.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM TRACY.

HOW'S THAT COUGH, I DARE ASK.

Probably not many readers have had time to make up and try the fool proof cough medicine after the directions given here last week. If you are saving it to try next time you have a bad cough, please remember I promise no cures and I connected the medicine in the first place for acute croup and acute coughs and only suggested it for those with chronic bronchitis because (a) a number of readers have reported more or less satisfaction from its use in chronic bronchitis and (b) it can't do any harm in any case.

Subjects of chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis or emphysema should never lose sight of the fact that a certain amount of cough is helpful in itself and hence mistake to take any medicine stops or lessens the impulse cough, as most cough medicine thanks to the sedative or narcotic in the formula.

In some cases of chronic cough attended with considerable wheezing somewhat larger doses of iodine or iodid than gets in the regular iodine may have a marked influence on all cases of chronic bronchitis or emphysema whether there are asthmatic forms or not, the subjects take a regular iodine ration. Instructions will be mailed on request if you provide a stamped addressed envelope.

The real trouble in not a cases of what purports to be chronic bronchitis or recurrent winter cough is chronic sinusitis and when the sinus is drained properly treated the cough clears up. If there is any suggestion of such underlying trouble the patient must be to get an optimal daily ration of vitamin D—in my judgment means 5,000 or more units of min D daily. For the past year I have taken 10,000 units of vitamin D (in the form of 2 radiated yeast tablets) each morning with breakfast, just as I want to get plenty of as well as the additional vitamins B and vitamin G one gets in pleasant form.

Dr. Osler, in the last edition of his "Practice," said, in the treatment of chronic bronchitis: "The old-fashioned remedy warmly recommended by Dublin physicians, has in my quarters fallen undeservedly disuse." This refers of course the purified oil of turpentine tended for medicinal use and to the crude oil or spirits of turpentine intended for industrial use. The average dose of the pure of turpentine is not more than a few drops twice a day a food; it may be taken on a 11 sugar. A year or two ago my readers reported that they obtained good results from taking two grains of terpin hydrate, tablet or capsule, after food twice a day, for chronic bronchitis. Terpin hydrate is made from turpentine.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Perborate.
Using sodium perborate, as prepared by moistening with water on sores on gums and in mouth also keeping some in mouth with shaving, as suggested by you trench mouth (Vincent's angina) certainly does the trick. Please reassure me as to strength of solution to hold in mouth with shaving. (F. S.)

Answer—Teaspoonful of sodium perborate in glassful of water.

Congenital Hip Disease.
Born with dislocated hip. Operation corrected it when I was child, now 27 years old. No history of similar condition in family. I marry can I have normal children or would child of mine have congenital hip dislocation? (S. I.)

Answer—The condition is hereditary. Your children will no more likely than any other children to have congenital dislocation of the hip.

Embroider Your Monograms

Here's professional finish—effective smartness—easy workmanship, all in these initials. The single and outline stitch of the two larger-sized alphabets and the French knots of the smaller one are so simple that even a beginner can do them with ease. Today's monograms need color to achieve smartness so use two colors or two shades of one color. Tip—black with a color is extra smart! In pattern 5985 you will find a transfer pattern of five complete alphabets, two 2 inches; two 1-1/4 inches and one 5-8 inch; information on correct placing of initials for monograms; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Mama gives me Teething when I'm so terribly constipated and when I'm so stomach give me colic pains, or when I'm the wrong kind of food and when I'm bowels. Teething makes a big hit with me because it tastes good, and mama knows 'cause twelve powders cost but 80c. The drug store man keeps plenty of Teething in his babies." TEETHING.

MELLON CLEARED

OF FRAUD IN TAX

Appeals Board Slashes
$2,375,000 Off Claim for Levy on Income.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon won today, three months after his death, formal exoneration of income tax fraud.

The United States Board of Tax Appeals threw out the govern-ment's fraud charge unanimously, and in a divided opinion on other issues slashed the government claim for additional taxes on Mel-lon's 1931 income from $3,075,103 to about $700,000.

The 125-page decision was so complicated, however, that it may be several days before the exact amount is determined. It took the board a year to make the decision.

Both sides considered appealing the decision to the circuit court of appeals, but the ruling brought to at least a temporary end one of the most sensational controversies be-tween New Dealers and their pre-decessors. The government accused Mellon of dodging taxes. He brand-ed the charges "political persecu-tion."

Mellon first came to general public notice when President Harding named him secretary of the treasury in 1921. He contin-ued to manage the nation's fi-nances under Coolidge and Hoover until, in 1932, Hoover sent him to London as ambassador. The ad-vent of the New Deal retired him to private life. The tax quarrel began a year later.

The administration filed the huge claim and sought a criminal fraud prosecution. A Pittsburgh grand jury refused to indict him, and today's ruling supported that decision.

Eighty-two years old and in fail-ing health, Mellon spent his last few months donating a $50,000,000 gallery of art masterpieces to the government.

During the six-month trial of the tax claim, Mellon acknowl-edged that in 1931, while he was tax collector-in-chief of the United States, he sold certain stocks at a loss to reduce his taxes. The gov-ernment contended this was ille-gal, but the board declared to-day that the transactions were both valid and proper.

W. H. Faust, secretary of the de-partment of evangelism, Georgia Baptist convention, will preach at the Salem Baptist church, Ogle-thorpe, Ga., at 11 o'clock Sat-urday and Sunday mornings. He will also conduct the night ser-vices at Lexington Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock Sunday.

Members of the Atlanta Board of Zoning Appeals will reopen a hearing on a petition to with-draw a tract of land from zoning treatment at 11 o'clock Sat-urday at a meeting to be held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the city hall. A permit already has been granted by the board, but at the insistence of opposing council members and citizens, the board scheduled a new hearing.

Walter C. Voss, professor of construction at Massachusetts In-stitute of Technology, Boston, will speak on the subject of "Why Masonry Walls Leak" at an in-vestigation of masonry sponsored by the National Life Association of Washington, D. C., at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow. The meeting will be held at the Henry Grady hotel.

STUDENT BADLY BURNED
AS HE FALLS WITH ACID
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—John Slaughter, 18, a South-western college sophomore from Mil-leville, Ala., suffered severe burns on the face and body to-day when he fell while carrying two gallon jars of acid in a campus building.

Dr. John R. Meadows, of the college faculty, said the youth stumbled while carrying the liquid up stairs. "He tore his clothing off and gave him a bath in a big sink immediately after the acci-dent," Dr. Meadows said.

G-MAN SHOOTING LEADS TO 'SECRECY' PROTEST
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The shooting of Federal Agent H. A. Snow during an attempt to trap an extortionist last night led to a protest from county officers tonight against the "secrecy" of Federal Bureau of In-vestigation in pursuing tactics Sheriff Williams, in a telegram to J. Edgar Hoover, the bureau director, said "failure" of federal agents "to co-operate" with local officers allowed "a dangerous killer to escape into our territory."

Snow was wounded critically last night in an exchange of shots with suspected extortionist. His assailant escaped.

3 MINISTERS CONDUCT J. F. ADAMS' FUNERAL
Funeral rites for J. F. Adams, College Park religious leader, who died Sunday at his residence, were held yesterday morning in the College Park Methodist church.

The Rev. W. S. Robinson, the Rev. James L. Baggett and the Rev. W. S. Adams conducted the services. Burial was in College Park cemetery.

Spinster, 93, Is Killed As Comb Pierces Skull
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The death of a 93-year-old spinster, Miss Margaret Curran, was attributed today to the heavy comb she wore in her hair.

Miss Curran fell in such a way that the comb pierced her skull.

CURTIS BROOKS DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

Auto Skidded 94 Feet, Clipped Down Two Power Line Poles.

Curtis Brooks, 31, of 130 Second avenue, Decatur, died yesterday at a local hospital of injuries received Sunday when his auto skidded 94 feet on wet pavement, clipped down two power poles and caught afire on Candler road just outside the Atlanta city limits.

Brooks and two companions were thrown from the auto. Firemen and power company linemen extinguished the flames which caused a 30-minute break in the power supply in the Candler road-Memorial drive neighborhood.

Brooks received a compound fracture of the left leg, a fractured skull and severe head and facial lacerations.

With him at the time of the accident were two employees of his garage, J. C. Coter, of Stone Mountain, who was treated at Grady and dismissed, and Emmett Alexander, 28, of Second avenue, who, police said, left the scene before they arrived.

Brooks is survived by his wife. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

HYMAN CLEIN, 35, MERCHANT, DIES

Native of England Buried in Greenwood.

Hyman Klein, of 456 Parkway drive, N. E., furniture dealer, died late Monday night in a hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was 35.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg with Cantor M. Landman and P. S. Klein officiating. Burial was in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Klein was born in Leeds, England. As a child he went with his parents to South Africa, coming to Atlanta about 16 years ago. He had been associated with his father, L. Z. Klein, in the furniture business on Pryor street. He was a member of the Ahavath Achim congregation.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, three brothers, Harry, Jack and Sol Klein, and four sisters, Mrs. R. Barskin, Mrs. Oscar Levin, Mrs. Charles Bergman and Mrs. Isadore Krantz.

Constitution of United States Outlined for Essay Contest

By WILLIAM W. BREWTON, Director, State Sesquicentennial Commission.

Article 9. Washington, Madison, Hamilton, King, Franklin, Wilson, the Messrs. Morris.

As we have seen, William Pierce, of Georgia, sketched his personal impressions of the men in the convention, though he left before its close. He also made a few notes on the proceedings, which were published in part in Savannah in April, 1828. From the personal sketches it is seen that the delegates were mostly very young men, some in their twenties, many in their thirties. Washington was 55. The strong government men had wanted Washington because they knew he could win over the people to centralized government. Though he positively refused to be used by either faction, he did distrust public sentiment.

Washington did not urge any proposal until the last day, when he advocated more men in congress than had been fixed.

Pierce says Madison was a man "universally acknowledged" for his genius in political science; that in the convention "he took the lead, was the best-informed man in the Union," although he was "modest, sweet-tempered, agreeable in conversation."

Hamilton, who was born in the West Indies, was 30, and "feeble-voiced, small, lean, stiff and vain, but thorough." His own propositions were so unacceptable to the convention that he only read them without permitting them to be voted on.

Rufus King, of Massachusetts, 32, is described as "eloquent" and of splendid physical appearance.

"Heavens Obey Him," Of Benjamin Franklin, 81, Pierce says: "The very heavens obey him and clouds yield up their lightning to be imprisoned in his rod; but what claim he has to being a politician, posterity must judge."

JUNIOR RED CROSS PLANS RALLY HERE

Atlanta, Fulton To Be Hosts
Thursday, Friday.

Atlanta and Fulton county chapters of the Junior Red Cross will play host to a two-day southern rally here tomorrow and Friday. Highlight of the two-day program will be an address by Dr. Thomas W. Gosling, national director of the Junior Red Cross, at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the O'Keefe Junior High school.

Representatives of 15 chapters of the Junior Red Cross will travel to Atlanta to attend the rally, the theme of which will be "World Friendship." In addition to Dr. Gosling, Dr. Willis A. Sutton, city superintendent of schools, and Professor Reid Hunter, assistant, will address the convention.

Closing banquet and dance will be held at the Piedmont hotel Friday night. Miss June Moore, member of the Ajax Club and honorary member of the Junior Red Cross, will preside as toastmistress. During the banquet Miss Martha Worthen, president of the Ajax Club, and Earle Cooke Jr., chairman of the high school council of the Junior Red Cross, will read a report on the organization's activities.

TRAIN DISPATCHERS SEEK 6-HOUR DAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—American train dispatchers, claiming to have one of "the worst jobs in the world," asked a senate committee today to order a six-hour day for them.

J. G. Luhrs, of Chicago, president of the American Train Dispatcher Association, said the dispatchers who control all train movements, had decided to ask legislation rather than strike for the six-hour day. He estimated shortening the day from the present eight-hour shift would cost railroads about $2,500,000 annually.

MRS. MILLIKEN RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Olive J. Milliken, local Christian Science leader, who died Sunday while visiting friends in Boston, Mass., will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Spring Hill. Mrs. Dorothy Clark, former second reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will be in charge. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Serving as second reader, superintendent of the Sunday school, clerk of the church and member of the board of directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, which she joined about 1917, Mrs. Milliken had taught Christian Science here about 14 years. She became a Christian Scientist in 1901. Her home was 1050 Ponce de Leon avenue.

3 GEORGIA OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR COLLEGE

Three Georgia officers have been selected for detail as students at the Army Industrial College, Washington, D. C., for the 1938-39 course. It was announced yesterday at fourth corps area headquarters.

The three officers are Major James C. Longino, of Fairburn, quartermaster corps; Captain Richard H. Trippie, of Acworth, finance department; and Captain Wilbur H. Vinson, of Milledgeville, infantry.

R. L. BAGWELL RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Services for Robert L. Bagwell, Alpharetta planter, who died Monday in a hospital here, will be conducted at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the Alpharetta Baptist church by the Rev. R. M. Donehoo and the Rev. G. C. Light. Burial will be in Alpharetta cemetery. Mr. Bagwell had been a planter in the Alpharetta section several years.

SENATOR MOVE TO END STATE

Georgia's Case Again
Tennessee Copper F
Would Be Arbitrated

A resolution which its said would pave the way for termination of a suit by the Tennessee Copper Company yesterday received approval of the Georgia committee on mines and geology.

The suit now before the States supreme court, petitions for an injunction out of damages caused by gases produced acid plants of the Ducktown, Copper & Iron Co. Ltd., at Isabella, Tenn. The Ducktown was purchased by the Tennessee Copper Company August 3, 1914.

The resolution was introduced by Senator H. W. Hampton. He said it would ask the Governor to enter a caveat with the Tennessee Copper company providing for settlement of damages by a board of two members, one appointed by the Governor and the other by the company.

Total damages, Senator Hampton said, would be limited to the contract to $5,000 annually. The state arbitrator would receive a salary of $100 a month from April 1 to November expenses while working.

LEE ST. RESIDENT TELLS HER ST

3 Weeks Ago Was T
Point, Says Mrs. Har
825 Lee Street

"I was reading The Constitution one morning about three weeks ago," said Mrs. A. L. Harro, who resides at 825 Lee street, when she said she had a bad cough and it left her very bad cough which stayed with her the whole summer. This not only caused me no end of discomfort, but was a real embarrassment to me.

When I saw a Mentho-Mulsion advertisement in The Constitution I decided to try it. The first of Mentho-Mulsion helped me after I had taken it for a few days. I was entirely gone.

My husband, who has been with me since I was a child, said I had a cough and cold this fall only a few doses of Mentho-Mulsion quickly relieved him. I body in the apartment where I live thinks Mentho-Mulsion is the best cough remedy money can buy, and I agree with them and I would be without it for anything. (adv.)
